A LOVER'S SONG.

A MAY MADNESS.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

There is a maiden sweet and fair,
Of kindly mood and debonnaire,
Of whom I'd sing
A song so full of truth and love
'Twould laud her to the skies above,
Or some such thing.
My bold and hopeless wish and aim
From housetop's height I would proclaim
That all might hear;
And, free as Heaven's light and air,
My passion to the world declare
Long, loud and clear.
Then with a heart full, light and gay,
Like merry bird I'd speed away
And clasp my arms
Around my loved one's form divine,
And murmur: "Mine alone—all mine!"
And chase alarms
Far from the heart I'd fancy mine,
And in my loving grasp entwine
Her finger tips.
My other arm then 'round her waist
Would steal, and then—oh, joy!—I'd taste
Her ruby lips.
And thus we'd sit, our love to tell,
While twilight shadows gently fell—
Night stole along—
And golden visions we would dream,
While nightingales to sing would seem
Love's old sweet song.

* * * * * * *

Yet hold! I must curtail my rhyme,
And stay at least a little time
Just to reflect.
In such a tearing haste I've got
That—'pon my word—I quite forgot:
She might object!

* * * * * * *

L'ENVOI.

And maybe this you'd like to know:
Who is the girl I worship so—
Well, then I'll tell
This much to you—and nothing more—
What perhaps I should have told before—
Her name is Nell.

NOBLE CAMPBELL.

TOM.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY MARIE MADISON.

He had been an actor, and not a bad one, I am told, till ill health compelled him to give up the stage and seek other means of earning a livelihood. He tried various ways of making a living, but, as manual labor was out of the question, since at every exertion his heart would beat so rapidly that it almost suffocated him, he turned to literature as the easiest means of gaining his bread and butter. He began by composing poems and short stories, but, finding no sale for them, finally ended by writing comic articles for various magazines and weekly papers.

It was difficult at first. Inspiration for pathetic tales and pretty bits of verse came to him readily, but it was not so easy to find and single out the humorous incidents of life. For a time his attempts were more on the order of satire than humor, like his own existence. He smiled when he thought of his two sided fate, the reality so sad and full of pathos, even while he was raking his brain to think of something to make people laugh.

But it is possible to cultivate one's mind to see comic things in nature, even as an artist cultivates his eye to see bits of color that another would never notice.

True, the living Tom made by this means was a very poor one, and he blended with it the occupation of copying manuscripts for more fortunate writers. In that way he managed to make money enough to live in the simplest manner, and to send a small stipend regularly to his old mother, who depended almost entirely upon him for support.

His lodging, for which he paid one dollar and a half a week, and twenty-five cents extra for a little coal to make a slight fire when he had work to do in the evening, was neat, though sparsely furnished, and looking out, as it did, on the back yards of a row of tenements, Tom often found it profitable to sit at his window and study his numerous neighbors in search of something humorous.

One cold Winter night he sat at his table trying to write. His head ached, and the thoughts would not come to him, try him as he would.

Before him lay a letter from the editor of The Sunday Jester, a paper to which he had been a regular contributor, asking for a more lengthy article than usual for the holiday number, and ending by saying: "Make it funny—very funny. The old year is carrying with it its woes and sorrows, and at the beginning of the new year, when all will be merry, we must be merry with them. Remember, the world wants to laugh."

"The world wants to laugh!" muttered Tom, now and then looking at the letter lying open before him. Then, with a grim smile, he would try again, though his heart ached more violently than ever, and the words the hospital doctor had said to him that morning rang in his ears.

"You are completely broken down and need a long rest," he had said. "You must not work so hard. Take my warning now in time."

Yes, he would take that warning after he had written this one article, that must be done; then he could afford to take a rest, and he would. For one whole day he would not take a pen in hand. He would go out into the fresh air—do nothing, think of nothing, and perhaps this terrible head ache would wear away, and he could work all the harder the next day for his recreation.

At last he began:

"SHAKESPEARE IMPROVED."

"'All the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely players;' some play poker, some faro; most women play the game of hearts, while the Chinaman plays fan tan, and even the little newsboy on the corner plays his game of craps.

"'They have their exits and their entrances,' the policeman has his at the back door—'and one man in his time plays many parts,' among them the 'injured husband' to perfection.

"Public opinion is the prompter, and the wife who wears the pantaloons is stage manager in most cases.

"A great many don't know their lines; they are too slow in taking up their cues, and, consequently, get left. They go about wondering why they don't make a hit, but they never take the trouble to perfect themselves in their parts.

"Some are selfish, and want the centre of the stage all the time, while others keep the corner, because they haven't the courage to take the centre when it belongs to them. We have the scene shifter, who plays a great part in the world's drama, albeit he is seldom seen, and the carpenter, who builds the frames for all the scenery, and occasionally a scaffold for some poor actor to mount, as the final curtain falls for him.

"From the infant to the tottering aged man is but a span when, 'sans eyes, sans teeth, sans taste, sans everything, he ends this great, eventful history,' the stage carpenter makes him a coffin, his fellow players drop a tear in memory, and the play goes on."

Tom stopped, and laid his pen aside to read over what he had written.

Before him still lay the editor's letter, with these words staring him in the face: "Remember, the world wants to laugh."

"Yes, the world will laugh at that," said Tom to himself, "perhaps they will wonder why I have made the ending so sad; why, it's not sad. It's funny—very funny, for the play goes on. Yes, if the world sees it as I do, it will laugh."

He folded the missive, and placed it in an envelope, addressed it to the editor of The Sunday Jester, and hurried away with it to the nearest letter box. In the morning, when the editor received it he shook his head gravely and threw it into the waste paper basket. At the same time a friend of Tom's knocked at his door, and receiving no answer, entered.

He found him sitting in his chair before the table, his eyes fixed upon the editor's letter, and the words: "Remember, the world wants to laugh."

But his eyes were sightless, and the fingers that held his pen were numb and cold.

Poor Tom was dead.

And the world laughed on.

ANCIENT SCENE LIFTS.

In the square lifts grooves can be traced to guide the cages in their ascent, and pierced stone bearers at the top to hold the pulleys over which ran the ropes and counterpoising weights that hoisted up the cages. A similar arrangement of machinery and lifts in some earlier place of amusement is described by Seneca (Epis. 88), who mentions the machinatores (scene shifters) working the pegmata (lifts?) and scenery (tabulata) rising up to a great height. A large number of massive bronze sockets, with dovetailed flanges set in great blocks of travertine exist in rows in various parts of the substructures, both under the arena, and also in the long vaulted rooms on each side of the subterranean passage which runs toward the Lateran on the major axis. These bear marks of circular wear from revolving pivots, and must have been for windlasses to hoist up the heavy scenery from the lower spaces. Probably these windlasses were originally used to hoist cages up the inclined planes before the lifts were introduced.—The Remains of Ancient Rome.

The Crowning Feature.

"Yes, gentlemen," remarked the advance agent of the only big show on earth, "notwithstanding the fact that in the past we have ransacked the globe from pole to pole, have penetrated the jungles of South America, the deserts of Africa, the ice locked fastnesses of the Arctic region, and the sacred lands of India in our determination to secure everything weird, worthy and wonderful under the sun, we have still been enabled to stamp improvement on the wings of time, and this season we present a bewildering array of attractions totally eclipsing the wildest imaginations of wonderland: a whirlwind of marvels, sweeping all our would be imitators away with an irresistible impetuosity!"

While the speaker paused for breath his hearers prepared themselves for the worst.

"Our gigantic universal aggregation of consolidated wonders was the first show on earth to introduce a female lion tamer. The first year she performed with one lion, the next with two, and so on till the tenth year, when she played with ten of them at once. Then she began that very hazardous proceeding, which might be termed mixing her drinks, by bringing tigers, leopards, etc., into her family of brute monarchs. Finally, during last season, she appeared in a mammoth enclosure and played with a number of lions, tigers, leopards, hyenas, crocodiles, boa constrictors, wild cats and rattlesnakes all at one and the same time.

"The public unanimously declared that woman could do nothing more to demonstrate her utter fearlessness of the animal creation, but she has."

Every one held his breath awaiting the startling revelation about to be made.

"Yes sir; recognizing the fact that the press and people demand something newer and more startling every year, Mme. De Slambanggio has this year discarded lions and tigers and everything old, and now actually enters a cage containing three live and unfettered mice!"

It required the combined efforts of the strong men of the party to resuscitate the weaker members who had fainted away.—The Chicago Times.

FOUR-IN-HAND DRIVING.

While England has recently enjoyed a coaching "revival," there are signs that here we are about to begin our coaching era. Yet it is very much to be doubted whether there is a paying coach route nowadays even abroad, though many are run by job masters who can do the thing much more economically than it could be done by an amateur; these job masters gain benefit from the enterprise in advertisement, and derive often a revenue from the sale of the driving cushion or privilege of driving. A road coach which averages over nine and a half miles an hour should have a horse for every mile of distance traveled one way; that is to say, a twenty mile route should be horsed by not less than twenty animals. Other expenses are proportional, as a set of harness for each team, an efficient head man and a strapper at each stage, and a host of other accessories and adjuvants. Often the expenses are borne jointly by several gentlemen, who either guarantee a job master a certain amount or assume the entire undertaking themselves. These are called subscription coaches. The individual who selects a long route for his coach must needs be several times a millionaire. The American gentleman and superb "whip" who some years ago owned and ran the London-Brighton coach assured the writer that he spent upon the enterprise thirty thousand dollars before he turned a wheel. Some idea of the colossal scale on which coaching was once conducted in England may be gained in considering that one contractor had seventeen hundred horses employed at one time.—Lippincott's.

WRONG—ALL WRONG.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

A young and guileless dry goods clerk went forth to play—
'Twas wrong, dead wrong—
The races, with a tip, a knowing smile and six months' pay;
He was wrong, dead wrong.
He got big odds upon the nag "'Gainst which"—his jockey friend
Had said: "'Tis naught but madness for all others to contend."
He's now in business for himself (I don't mean to offend),
But you were wrong—dead wrong.

An actor trav'ling from a sharp bought a worthless bit of glass—
He was wrong, dead wrong—
For a diamond, but unloaded on "a hayseed green as grass;"
He was wrong, dead wrong.
He laughed clear to the next "stop off," when he 'rose from his seat,
And allowed "his shrewdness really obligated him to treat."
The company drank, the barkeep. tossed him back the counterfeit—
'Twas wrong, dead wrong.

He was wrong, dead wrong.
His victim, a contortionist, was pleased not with the plan—
'Twas wrong, dead wrong;
The sequel's wrapp'd in mystery, the tough can't say just how
'Twas done ('tis paradoxical, you will yourself allow),
For, though he will not see for weeks, his eyes are open now—
He was wrong, dead wrong.

A bank cashier—as bank cashiers will do 'til time's no more—
Though wrong, dead wrong—
Fled with the contents of the safe, a hundred thou., or more;
'Twas wrong, dead wrong.
Discov'ring at the station that his train was four hours late,
He ordered lunch at a hotel and sat him down to to wait.
They captured him with all his spoil before he'd left the state.
He was wrong—dead wrong.

KATHERINE ROBER.

Katherine Rober, who is to star next season under the management of Phil H. Irving, was born on her father's farm in the northwestern part of Wisconsin. Her father was of French and her mother of German descent. At the age of six she removed with her parents to Chicago, and soon after became a student at the convent of Notre Dame, Milwaukee. There her education was completed. She is a pleasing linguist, speaking and writing several languages fluently. Her first appearance upon the stage was at the age of fifteen, at the Olympic, Chicago, at that time one of the leading theatres in America. Her success was instantaneous, and at the conclusion of the season she accepted an engagement at the Criterion Theatre in that city, as soubrette for the ensuing season. Prompted by her triumphs, Miss Rober determined to star through the West and South, and the result of this tour proved a continuation of her successes. Miss Rober has been a favorite in the widely varied roles which have fallen to her lot to play. From the rollicking soubrette to the most emotional and tragic parts, she has displayed capabilities of impersonation that have won popularity with her audiences. At the termination of a tour with C. R. Gardiner she came East and retired from active life for a season's rest, after which she was secured by Manager George E. Lothrop, as leading lady of one of his stock companies, playing leading parts, making one week stands at Boston, Providence, Worcester and Portland. During her two years' engagement she made hosts of friends in each of these cities.

THE English island of Jersey, where originated the Jersey breed of cattle, famous as butter makers, if square, would measure but six and three-quarter miles each way, yet it supports a population of sixty thousand, has over twelve thousand five hundred head of cattle, and exports annually some two thousand head. This is on an average one head of cattle to every two acres.

POPINJAY—So you've been around visiting the schools, eh? Bang up, aren't they? Magnificent discipline! Superb buildings! Beautiful furnishing! By the way, I want to ask what was the first thing that struck you on entering the primary department on School Street? Blobson (truthfully)—A bean from a bean shooter.

"NO, HIRAM," said the young girl, sadly, "I can not be your wife. We are too compatible." "Compatible!" he exclaimed. "Isn't that the very reason why ——" "Not in our case. I should probably insist, from motives of economy, on dispensing with a servant and doing my own housework, and you would probably let me do it, Hiram."

"You see those two men coming down the street?" "Yes." "Well, one is a janitor of an apartment hotel, and the other is a criminal detective." "That so?" "Yes. What a splendid musician they would make in combination." "How do you make that out?" "Why, one is familiar with the flats, and the other with the sharps."

SELBY—What a charming couple Mr. and Mrs. Doliboy are! Parker—Yes; but I should hardly call them a couple—they are so small, you know. "What would you call them, then?" "Why, a couplet, of course."

BOSTON, May 24.—The Boston debut of Lillian Durell at "Bignon" last night was made a notable event. Some idea of the character of the audience may be gleaned from the fact that the Governor, the Mayor and many other dignitaries were there. The debutante was in the title role, and it must be admitted that few singers have gained such a success as did Miss Durell last evening. In quality her voice is faultlessly true and pure to its utmost limit, and in her entire work is shown a remarkable degree of musical intelligence and artistic feeling. The large canvas was raised until the centre pole left the ground. Lights were extinguished, and the people rushed out, women and children shrieking, and men vainly endeavoring to pacify them. Several persons were knocked down and bruised, but, a portion of the side canvas having been torn away, the crowd soon scattered.

BUFFALO BILL, with his Wild West Show, now situated hard by the horticultural exhibition at West Brompton, Eng., seems to be repeating his Jubilee year success. HARRY LACY was released from the Moundsville, W. Va., Penitentiary May 16, his term having expired. He was "sent up" about two years ago. He pretended to represent Adam Forepaugh's Circus, and made liberal contracts with numerous people, getting money considerations from them. He hired the State Fair grounds for two days, and sold a well known saloon keeper the beer privilege of the grounds. He ran up a big bill at the McLure House, and, in other ways "did up" the community. Finally, he ran against a newspaper man, who thought his way of doing business peculiar, and telegraphed Mr. Forepaugh, who answered that Mr. Lacy was a fraud. It was an easy matter to convict him, and it developed that he had worked the same scheme elsewhere.

FRANK MANNING denies that he has joined the Clifford Bros. He is working with Margaret Howard, and will open their tent show June 6, at Jamaica, L. I. They will carry a 48x86 round top, with ten people and a brass band. They are booked for sixteen weeks on Long Island.

A MAN was arrested at Chicago May 18, for stealing a cage of lions. He is Henry Varnell, a runaway from Barnum & Bailey's Circus, who left the show at York, Pa., 13, taking with him a cage containing a lion, a lioness and two small cubs. Varnell was a driver on one of the cages, and also drove a chariot. He had become dissatisfied with the the money paid him, and had a row with the foreman of the drivers, resulting in a fight. That night, after the tents had been struck, he hitched his team to the wagon containing the lions, and drove away, ostensibly to the depot; but he drove to another depot, and, placing the cage in a box car, which he had chartered that afternoon, started for Chicago. In the hurried confusion the cage was not missed until the next day. Detective Lonergan found his man in a box car in the Northwestern freight yards. He was on his way to the West to join a circus in Nebraska. The lions were nearly dead from starvation. Varnell, the lions and the cage were returned to Pittsburg.

ROSTER of the sideshow with F. J. Taylor's Shows: F. J. Taylor, proprietor; John G. Scheidler, manager; F. P. Ambrose, Sig. Ed Thorn was made a full fledged K. of P. last week, and was presented by his wife with an elegant gold watch and chain, and a K. of P. charm on the closing night of the show.

A. H. SCHLANGE has bought the Great American Circus and in connection with Prof. Joseph Gomes, balloonist, will put it on the road in first class shape on June 9. The show will carry thirty-five people fifteen head of stock and a band of twenty pieces. Lee Maxey will be the general agent.

RINGLING NOTES. We have had that ill starred experience which most big shows have in time—a frightful railroad accident. On May 16 we left Beloit, Kan., in high spirits, and De Quincey's "vision of sudden death" was not among our dreams. At 2.45 that night, while en route to Washington, Kan., and about one mile west of Concordia, an appaling crash woke train section No. 1. In an instant all was excitement. A chaos of wrecked cars, some crushed to utter kindling wood, and others buried heading or sideling, this way and that. The track was submerged in the lake, which was full of dead and drowning horses, the latter "dying with harness on," in a literal sense of the term, and tangled in it most wofully. With humane bravery our men plunged into the waters, and cut harness right and left, or pulled the necks of drowning horses out of the water with halters. As the grey of morning came on, the situation grew worse. Robert O'Donnell, of Gratiot, Wis., was found in a mass of blood stained wreckage, with a splintered piece of two by three scantling driven clear through his head. His brains were strewn in every direction. He was an Oddfellow, and left his wife and three children some money, having recently sold a farm. His object in circus travel was to see the country and locate a new home in the West. Near by, 'mid twisted rails and rack and ruin, was the body of Albert Deitzler, aged sixteen, from Freeport, Ill. This poor boy's head looked like it had been crushed by a sledge hammer. It was nothing but broken skull and oozing brains. Twenty-three magnificent draught horses, heavy Clyde stallions, Normans and Percherons, floated dead in the lake on either side of the track. Other poor brutes had broken legs or ripped bellies, and had to be killed in the head. Many more in bad condition filled two livery stables. Half a dozen men were crushed or hurt internally. Two crowded sleepers just escaped destruction, while the engine stood tip tilted just past the fallen trestle. 'Mid the utter disarray of the wreck stood a white board shaped like a tombstone bearing a track number, but having monumental significance as it rose over death and suffering. A special train from Chicago came at once, bearing wrecking apparatus, and Assistant Chief R. R. Surgeon Farrar took care of the injured. These four had to go to the hospital: William Marshall, Baraboo, Wis., left leg broken, hip dislocated, injured internally about the head; Thomas McKinney, 328 South Street, Chicago, hurt internally and fearfully bruised about the left arm, head and shoulders; Frank Smith, Readsburg, Wis., head and face mashed, and injured about left side and arm; Charles Shay, Ottawa, Can., mashed about face and chest and hurt internally. The almost decapitated bodies of O'Donnell and Dietzler were taken to the railroad station, where a coroner's verdict rendered the railroad company culpable and the track inspector guilty of gross negligence. He had found the trestle unsafe, but instead of returning one mile to Concordia, went four miles ahead to Rice Station, whence his telegram backward just missed our first section, and just stopped our second section from crashing into the first. Rapidly summarizing, the Ringlings will lose about forty horses all told, and four new cars with various contents are absolutely ruined. Conservative estimates put the loss at $30,000, on top of which goes the loss of a day's receipts and damaging publicity. Twenty new horses were bought at once, while a telegram to John Ringling at Chicago brought on a carload more. Despite enormous disbursements the ghost walked as usual, and the next afternoon 10,000 under the canvas showed the wheel of fate to be running again in our favor. With good financial backing the plucky Ringlings never yield to fortune's fickle frowns, or lay down and let the elephant walk over them. Rained out of two shows at Topeka, wrecked at Concordia, and compelled by a heavy wind to show there with nothing but side walls, they are still largely ahead on the State, and will take their few Kansas misfortunes in the spirit of the Kansas State motto: "Adastra peraspera."

DOINGS OF THE DOWNIK & GALLAGHER'S UNITED SHOWS.—Rain is still with us, and we have yet to pack up a dry top on the season. We lost both shows at Buffalo May 19 on account of rain. The lot, including the ring, would have done very well for Paul Boyton's water show, but for a circus performance, never. Despite the weather, however, the boys are enjoying themselves fishing in Lake Erie. Business is far in advance of the weather. Everybody is well and contented.

DURING the evening performance of Burk's Circus at Reading Pa., May 20 a section of the reserved seats gave away, precipitating a number of people to the ground. A few persons were bruised, but nobody was seriously injured.

L. D. PUTNAM, who had been temporarily in charge of canvas with the Forepaugh Show, has rejoined Barnum & Bailey's Circus.

WM. KELLY has resumed his position as superintendent with the Forepaugh Show after an enforced absence of some weeks.

An attempt was made last week to remove the sick dramatist from the hospital to his home, but the physicians declared he could not stand the strain. He is reported to be sinking fast, although he has fought for life with a truly remarkable vitality. Mr. Gayler begs to be taken to his home to die, but the physicians will not permit it. He is suffering from a combination of diseases, the most fatal being heart failure and Bright's disease. Mr. Gayler's wife, who had been playing in "Across the Potomac," at Proctor's Theatre, this city, was summoned to his bedside May 20, during the second act of the play. She has been with him ever since. Many prominent actors, authors and managers have visited Mr. Gayler during the past week, or sent letters of encouragement.

— "Underground" is the title of a new comedy drama to be produced next season under the direction of C. E. Callahan and W. C. Donaldson. Daniel Harr, a newspaper man of Wilkesbarre, Pa., is the author of "Underground," which tells a story of the Pennsylvania mining regions. The characters are said to be drawn from life, at the author's early home among the mines. The scenery will be elaborate and picturesque. One act will show the interior of a mine with ascending carriages and coal cars in operation, the climax being a startling exhibition of realism. The last act depicts the suppression of a strike by a Wilkesbarre regiment. The incident is historical. The play is said to be built upon an elevated plane and, while quite melodramatic in the best sense of the word, not a weapon is used in it. A carload of special scenery will be carried, and a company numbering fifteen people will be engaged. The cast will be headed by Mr. Donaldson, who is now in this city.

— The "Joshua Simpkins" Co., under the menagement of Reno & Ford, closed their season at Kansas City, Mo., May 14. The company were out just forty-six weeks.

— Joseph J. Levy, whose successful tour as manager of the Margaret Mather Co. closed May 7, is in town, and designs to remain here during the Summer. Although he is in negotiation with several prominent attractions for 1892-3, his plans are not yet definitely settled. Mr. Levy is one of the best known and most skilfull of the old guard of managers, and his services are not likely to remain long unclaimed.

— W. E. Hines and wife (Earle Remington) are in town this week. They finished a prosperous engagement at Boston May 21, and are now en route to Decatur, Ill., where they will enjoy a Summer's rest. Their plans for next year are not yet settled, but there is a fair prospect that this clever pair will be decidedly "in it."

— Bobby Gaylor, who was among last week's CLIPPER callers, is justifiably delighted with his success in "Sport McAllister," at the Broadway Bijou, this city. His engagement has been extended to June 4, and may last beyond that date, if the weather favors. Mr. Gaylor will retain "Sport McAllister" as his play next season, but it will be much freshened, and a little bit quieted, so to speak. C. W. Young, who has made a hit in the cast, is re-engaged.

— Mrs. Jennie Kimball, manageress of the Kimball Opera Co., has brought to a close one of the most profitable seasons she has ever had in the management of Corinne. Mrs. Kimball and Corinne have returned to their home at Philadelphia, where they will take a well deserved rest until the opening of their season in September. Mrs. Kimball announces that the magnificence of her next season's production will surpass any of her room had been at a premium quite often during the engagement, which terminated 21, as did the season at the house.

HOWARD ATHENÆUM.—The French Folly Co. did very good business last week, and now we have John L. Sullivan in "Honest Hearts and Willing Hands" for a week I need scarcely say that Bro. Harris' house will not hold all who will be anxious to see the champion. Next week, John L. will appear in "Broderick Agra."

GAIETY AND BIJOU THEATRE.—As usual, Manager Keith is at the front with a rattling specialty programme. May Sears, who made her debut last week, is re-engaged, a fact that meets the warm approval of the many who heard her splendid soprano voice in operatic selections. She is certainly a finished vocalist, and won the warm applause of all who listened to her. Other specialty people on the bill are the Godoliero Quartet, Huber and Allyne, Geo E. Austin, Allen and Rankin, Berkeley and Howard, C. W. Littlefield, Burke Bros., John E. Drew, Gaylor and Graff, Lottie Elliott, Ferry (the frog man), Emery Sisters, Chas. Diamond, Le Page Trio, Lalor and Gill, Eugenie Garretta, Riley and Wolfe.

PALACE THEATRE.—The Summer season of opera was opened at the Palace last week with the production of "Robert Macaire," which was excellently rendered. The attraction this week is "The Mikado," staged with new scenery and a strong cast, engaged especially for this production, and which includes: Dorothy Glen, Julia Carey, Minnie Hilton, Adella Baker, Geo. Fisher, Wm. L. Clarke, Henry P. Clarke, Fred H. Hill and Geo. Robson. In the olio are Bertoto, the fairy danseuse, in a new terpsichorean creation; also Benedetto, the Parisian mimic; Prince and Princess Tanaka, the Watsons, William Daly, Dolly Merton, Volto and Vento, Harry Bishop, McDonald and Franklin, Mons. Venturoli, Louis Mettler, McBride and Barton, Sisters Wilson, Webb and Webb, and Lazelle Bros.

GRAND MUSEUM.—Manager Geo. E. Lothrop starts in with a change of base this week, opening a Summer season of light attractions at popular prices. The initial attraction is "My Awful Dad," presented by Ethel Tucker and H. Percy Meldon, supported by the stock. The comedy will have as a curtain raiser "Turn Him Out," with Frank D. Melville, Josie Devoy and others in the cast. The olio introduces Connors and Quigley, the Healeys, Joe A. Kelly, C. W. Littlefield, Jerome, May Bell and Geo. C. Davis.

THE BOSTON CIRCUS.—Manager M. R. Sheedy struck it well and wisely when he started his circus at Nos. 187-189 Hanover Street. During the largest portion of last week the weather was miserable, but the fine programme drew good business, the evening performance especially being witnessed by audiences that completely filled the water proof canvas covered arena. The bookings this week are of a high order, and I look to see what the enterprising proprietor justly deserves—a continued increase in business. For the present will appear C. H. Prouty, the Melville Trio in their exhibition of strength, El Nino Eddie, Leroux Bros, Vic Lacelle, Arhno, La Mothe and Maynard, Jas. Murthra, Castagna, Juggler Mardo, Chas. Knox and Prof. Robert Stickney with his trained stallion, dogs and pony.

STONE & STONE'S MUSEUM.—This will be most assuredly a gala week at Stone & Shaw's popular resort, and I'll wager a big apple that the house will be jammed to its utmost capacity. The attractions presented are strong. First and foremost in the lecture hall is the talking horse, Mahomet; also the trick mule, Minnie Warren; Prof. Bristol's troupe of educated ponies, Valentine, clown juggler; Engelbrecht and wife, sword contests Murtell, acrobat; Beatrix and her snakes and other novelties. On the stage: The Sheehans, Sam Lucas and wife, Lucier and Archmere, Richmond and Glenroy, Armond and Raymond, Eddie Quinn, Le Page Sisters, Chas. Phillips, Wm. McCarty, Dick Morton-Damondue, Thomas and Watson, Dean and Harrison.

WORLD'S THEATRE.—The London Gaiety Girls are here again for a stay of one week. This is the same troupe that played here a few weeks ago. Among them are McAvoy and May, Lida Clark, Letta Meredith, Dunnell and Adams, Hanley and Jarvis, and Bertalinna. In addition a specialty company will add to the attractions among the members being Zamora, Ripley and Risbee, Scotain and Osborne, James Marshall and Coogan Bros.

The Grand Opera House.

[CONCLUDED.]

Evening 27, Eva Cumings sang the role of Leonora, taking the place of Mme. Natalie. Sig. Montegriffo was the tenor. "Martha" was sung week commencing June 1. The cast:

Lionel	F. Michelena	Sir Tristan	Joseph Kilduff
Plunket	W. H. Clark	Nancy	Bella Tomlins
Mayor of Richmond			J. W. Williams
Lady Harriet			Louise Natalie

Evening June 4, there were several changes in the cast. Sig. Tagliapietra took the role of Plunket, Natalie the Martha, and Miss Linda the Nancy. During the first two acts of "Martha," evening 5, Alida Vareni, who was singing the part of Lady Harriet, was noticed to be so unsteady that it was with difficulty she got through. The manager was compelled to let Camile Muori take the role for the balance of the opera. Mr. Morissey stated that Vareni had taken something at dinner, that did not agree with her, and was compelled to seek relief in medicine. "The Bohemian Girl" was sung week of June 8. Sig. Tagliapietra retired from the company 10. "Faust" was given 15, for the week. The cast:

Marguerite	Louise Natali	Valentine	Wm Mertens

The season closed July 4.

The season of 1891-2 opened Saturday evening, Aug. 22, with Charles A. Gardner, the star, in a new play called "Captain Karl," produced for the first time in this city. The cast:

K. Emmet Jr. opened in "Fritz in Ireland;" "A Parlor Match" 11. T. H. French signed a lease of this house on Jan. 10, for one year, at $50,000, from May 1. It is understood that the reason the lease was not signed earlier was because the rent had recently been increased, and also because there were many repairs to be made in the house, which Jay Gould wanted the lessee to make. Donnelly and Girard commenced 18, in "Natural Gas," followed 25 by "The Stowaway;" Feb. 1, Fanny Davenport came in "Cleopatra;" "Men and Women" 8 "Hands Across the Sea" 15, Mr. Barnes of New York" 22, "The City Directory" 29, "Yon Yonson" March 7, N. Apollo Hall was located on the north side of Twenty-eighth Street, a few doors west of Broadway. It was erected by Peter Gilsey. It was two stories in height. The upper part was used for lectures, readings, balls and political meetings. The lower part was devoted to public amusements, and was first opened Oct. 16, 1868, with a concert by Jerome Hopkins, the proceeds of which were for the Orphan Free School Fund. Mme. De Lussan, Sig. D. Paolicchi, D. D. Griswold, C. H. Dibble and J. W. Pierson appeared. James Taylor, the London comic singer, and a combination consisting of Charles E. Collins, Mme. Stutafords, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Brennan and Mr. Kilner (pianist), commenced Oct. 19. Alf. Burnett, the humorist; Prof. Sharpley and Helen Nash joined this company Nov. 2, and the party closed 21. On Dec. 22 the Hibernian Minstrels commenced for a few weeks. The hall then underwent a complete overhauling, and reopened April 17, 1871, as Newcomb's Hall.

It was occupied by W. W. Newcomb's Minstrels, combined with Billy Arlington's Minstrels. In the organization were W. W. Newcomb, William Arlington, J. H. Surridge, Charles Reynolds, J. B. Donniker, J. H. Murphy, Chas. Henry, W. Henry Rice, Harry Stanwood and J. H. Withers and also Cincinnatus, the dancer, who made his first appearance in this city. After a season of two months, the company went on tour, and the hall was closed. They returned in August, and commenced another season Sept. 4. The company was as follows: Wm. Arlington, Walter Bray, Harry Stanwood, M. Lewis, James Edwards, Sam Price, Lon A. Meyers, Andy McKee, Chas. Hudson, J. H. Surridge, D. A. Vernon, W. Bartlett, Harry Percy, O. P. Sweet and Jesse Williams, leader. Business was bad, and they closed Sept. 30. The next managers were John E. McDonough and H. A. Earnshaw, who opened it Oct. 23, 1871, as

The St. James Theatre.

Thomas W. Davey (father of Minnie Maddern) was the business manager, and Jesse Williams, musical director. A vaudeville entertainment was presented by the following: Susie Galton, James Arnold, Alfred Kelleher, O. P. Sweet, J. H. Surridge, J. D. Thompson, Clarice Vernon, Kate Brevoort and E. D. Davies, ventriloquist (American debut). Annie Lonsdale was the next manager. "Les Bacchus," a burlesque, was presented Nov. 20, with Clara Fisher, H. J. Brompton, Miss Lewis, Mons. and Adele Thorpe, O'Neil and Arthur Matthison in the cast, and Annie Lonsdale in the leading role. This was the latter's rentree to the dramatic stage, after a long absence. The "season" was a very brief one (about one week), and the theatre closed

On Jan. 8, 1872, James Steele Mackaye opened this house for dramatic performances, with the new play, "Monaldi," said to have been written expressly for Mr. Mackaye, who on this occasion made his debut as an actor, and attempted to exemplify the practical utility of the Delsarte system of dramatic expression. He was supported by Miss Griswold as leading lady. She was a pupil of Mr. Mackaye. The play was handsomely staged. The character of Monaldi was one not readily understood here. Mr. Mackaye's acting was a novelty to New York playgoers, inasmuch as it consisted more of gesture than action. This was the predominating feature of his system. For years he had lectured on the Delsarte theory of dramatic art. M. Delsarte was a clever Frenchman, who conceived the happy thought of reducing facial expression to a system, the key to which he claimed to have found. If to grow stiff and limp by turns, to roll the eyes uncomfortably, to gasp convulsively, to make wry faces of a distracting variety, were sufficient to constitute acting, one would soon become a great actor. M. Delsarte never did compose any system that teaches, but simply a series of explanations. Not how to do it, but how it was done after it is done, is all any one can tell regarding a work of art. Mr. Mackaye believed its efficacy to be so great that a mere mechanical application of its so called principles would make an actor of anybody. Will a simple knowledge of the rules of elocution make an orator? Does a knowledge of the principles of vocalization equip a vocalist? Will the study of law make a successful pleader? That actors need to be educated to a certain extent in their art is not to be denied, but that any one is competent to become an actor by merely receiving the education, is too nonsensical to discuss.

Ability to act, like ability to paint, or to write poetry or fiction, must belong to the individual, and, when talent so exists, its proper development must rest chiefly on intuition.

The company engaged to support Mr. Mackaye was: A. H. Davenport, J. W. Thorpe, T. A. Dow, C. W. Butler, George Clement, W. Glassford, Miss Griswold and Miss Cushing (now Mrs. H. B. Lonsdale). On Feb. 10 the new play, "Marriage," was produced by Steele Mackaye, supported by Miss Griswold as Margaret; Nina Varian as Alice Brooks; A. H. Davenport, Mr. Brooks; Mrs. Keith, Mme. de la Vigne, Mr. Mackaye acting Carrol Gray. The season closed March 30, 1872. McEvoy's Hibernicon (panorama), came next, and closed June 1. W. S. Mansell, from London, Eng., made his American debut July 9, delivering a burlesque lecture in female costume. The next occupants of this house were the San Francisco Minstrels, who had given up their hall, No. 585 Broadway. The managers were originally William Birch, David Wambold, William Bernard and Charles Backus, but Mr. Bernard withdrew from the organization when they left the old hall, and did not appear here with them. They commenced on Aug. 26 for a season. W. S. Mullaly was the musical director. Beaumont Reid made his American debut on the opening night. They closed March 1, 1873, and went on tour. Swayne Buckley and Sam Sharpley's Minstrels opened 3, with the burlesque opera, "La Sonnambula." They gave a first part entertainment and a burlesque opera. They afterwards took off the first part, and gave a protean farce, followed by an olio and a burlesque opera. They closed March 22. Frank McEvoy's New Hibernicon commenced April 14, for four weeks. This finished the career of this place.

Early in June, 1873 the Gilsey estate concluded to transform this place of amusement into a handsome theatre. The architect was S. D. Hatch; the stage was 45ft. wide, and could easily be converted into a large, open space, unobstructed by any machinery, posts, etc. On the stage right, in a separate building, 43ft. long by 20ft. wide, were the stage carpenter and scenic artist's rooms. The building had a frontage of 60ft. on Twenty-eighth Street, and 65 in the rear and was 160ft. deep. The vestibule occupied 20ft., the house 70 and the greenroom 30ft. The house was 56ft. high. The interior was in the style of the Renaissance. The parquet seated about six hundred persons, the first circle seated four hundred, and the second gallery five hundred. The height of the gridiron from the stage floor was 65ft. The proscenium opening was 28ft. wide by 40 high. It was opened Dec. 3, 1873, by Aug. Daly, as

The New Fifth Avenue Theatre.

WORLD PLAYERS:

— A judgment of great interest in its construction of what under the Inter-State Commerce act constitutes an unlawful discrimination was rendered by commonly known as the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad the United States Supreme Court May 16, in the case theatrical rate case, involving the right of the railroad company to sell at a reduced rate tickets to parties of ten or more persons. The court, in an opinion by Justice Brown, sustained the decision of Judge Jackson, refusing to issue an injunction to restrain the railroad company from continuing the sale of party rate tickets. The general ground of the opinion is that it is not an unjust discrimination for a railroad company to sell tickets at wholesale cheaper than at retail. In the argument before the Supreme Court a great deal was made of the point that these party rate tickets were commutation tickets, and as such lawful under the Inter-State Commerce act, but the court, in its opinion, while referring to this contention, did not absolutely rule upon it, basing its opinion on a consideration of the clause of the act forbidding unjust discriminations and the grant of undue or unreasonable preferences to any person over other persons, and applying to this particular case the construction it gave those words. The principal objects of the Inter-State Commerce act, the court says in its opinion, were to secure just and reasonable charges for transportation; to prohibit unjust discriminations in the rendition of like services under similar circumstances and conditions; to prevent undue or unreasonable preferences to persons or corporations or localities; to prohibit greater compensation for a shorter than a longer distance over the same line, and to abolish combinations for the pooling of freights. It was not designed, however, to prevent competition between different roads, or to interfere with the customary arrangements made by railway companies for reduced fares in consideration of increased mileage, where such reduction did not operate as an unjust descrimination against other persons traveling over the road.

— Arthur Grenus, a scene painter, was before Judge Tighe in the Butler Street Court, at Brooklyn, N. Y., May 16, accused of abandoning his wife, Elizabeth Grenus, a variety actress. The couple have been married only three weeks, and the bride alleges that the desertion took place three days after the ceremony. She says Mr. Grenus followed her over the country, and, finally, much against her inclination and better judgment, induced her to marry him. She graduated from the Boston University School of Oratory with high honors, and met Mr. Daniels while attending a similar school at Denver in 1880. The fire flared up rapidly, and when the house and stage hands and actors got at it, it was very near the flies. They worked hard, and finally extinguished the flames. DYER'S OPERA HOUSE.—The firm, Baker & Edwards, under whose management this house was recently opened, have gone out of existence. The partnership was dissolved 16, after a four weeks' ineffectual struggle to establish the business on a paying basis. The house is now being managed by Justice Paige and Charles McElroy, under the supervision of Judge W. A. Phillips, of the District Court, who represents the creditors. J. Gordon Edwards remains as stage manager. A. Baker, who was represented as the moneyed man and backer of the venture, has withdrawn entirely. Many creditors, including nearly everybody who did business with the firm, from the billposter to the owner of the theatre, trusted them on the assurance that Mr. Baker was a wealthy and responsible person, but when the crisis came he failed to meet his obligations. A member of the committee appointed to examine the accounts says that sufficient money had been taken in to meet expenses if the business had been properly managed, and members of the company are inclined to hold Mr. Baker responsible for their present predicament, as it was he who had charge of the financial end. The bill this week includes "The Queen's Evidence," preceded by the farce, "The Yankee Pedler," for the first four nights and Wednesday and Saturday matinees, and "Damon and Pythias" Friday and Saturday nights, at which performances several local lodges will be in attendance.

NOTES.—Washburn's Circus exhibited at Pawtucket 21, to fair business, on account of a heavy rain. The attendance was large throughout the entire week. The Colton Opera Co., in "The Mikado," as the third week's attraction in the Albaugh season of Summer opera, was well attended. Frank I. Frayne's "Boy Ranger" Co., after a rather hard struggle, came to grief May 21 at Harris' Bijou, and disbanded. A house company had a good week's business at Kernan's Lyceum. Prof. J. Loris, popularly known as the "Greek," an all 'round shot, has this to say under date of May 21: "From my advertisement in THE CLIPPER I have received more than half a hundred letters for dates and engagements, and I desire to thank THE CLIPPER for them. As a result, I am booked for the Summer in the following places: For four weeks, commencing May 30, at Birmingham, Ala.; four weeks at Kansas City, Mo.; two weeks at Coney Island, Vacca's Pavilion, and two weeks at Montreal. And, what's more, I am still receiving letters from managers of Summer resorts for dates."

NEW YORK CITY.

Last Week's Doings.—In the new offerings on metropolitan play boards last week there was a diversity of material, and all of it was staged with care; but only variety farce was successful in an uncommon degree. A salacious piece quite unworthy of extended comment gained a morbid sort of endorsement that carried no distinction, and surely cannot be lasting in its profit. Otherwise the week had no notable features.....The season of fiascos is not yet at an end, it seems. The ACADEMY was the scene of one on Saturday night, May 21. Pratt & Ogden, who recently managed two trial matinees of one act plays at HOYT'S MADISON SQUARE, attempted to give the third and final one of the series at the Academy afternoon and night of 21. The venture was good enough in spirit, but lamentably weak in money. Only the matinee performance was held. At night, the theatre rent not being forthcoming, Business Manager Van Dusen, representing Gilmore & Tompkins, refused to open the house. The few hundred persons who had gathered to see the show were turned away, and their money was not refunded. The actors and stage hands who appeared in the afternoon received no pay for their work. THE CLIPPER several weeks ago made known that Pratt & Ogden had failed to pay all the claims contracted in their Buffalo, N. Y., trip with the company which had appeared at the Madison Square. The Academy fiasco, therefore, was not entirely unexpected. The three plays acted at the matinee, to a painfully slim house, were "Jack's Little Dinner," by C. A. Watrous and E. F. Coward; "On Election Day," by Edmund Gastineau, and "One of the Seventh," by H. Slade. In the first named piece, whose authors are newspaper men, Mr. Coward and Albert Montague (amateurs) appeared, assisted by Lizzie Rechelle, Kate Lester and William Murray. Wright Huntington appeared in "One of the Seventh," and other professionals were also in the cast. All three plays were here acted for the first time on any stage. Neither can be said to have achieved much success. .....The week at the AMBERG was not altogether uneventful. On 16 Adolph Neuendorff benefited, leading the orchestra in his own familiar and popular opera, "Der Rottenfaenger von Hamelin." Night of 18 saw the first performance on any stage of a three act operetta, "Der Minstrel," the music by Herr Neuendorff and the libretto by Heinrich Urban, this being the cast: Meredith, Graf von Aberdeen, Herr Gerold; Lady Cathleen, Frl. Boner; Nancy, Georgine von Januschowsky; Betsey, Frl. Schmitz; Duncan, Herr Phillip; Sir Tom Tullamore, Herr Sinnhold; Hiram McFarland, Herr Lube; Mawdlin, Frl. Reichardt; Barnaby, Herr Rank; Robin Peabody, Herr Walter; Mey, Frl. Schlag; Owen O'Neale, Herr Gelleng. The piece was quite well received by a large audience, and was repeated 19-21.....The following were unchanged bills: "The Grey Mare" and "The Organist" at the LYCEUM, "A Trip to Chinatown" at HOYT'S MADISON SQUARE, "Friends" at the STANDARD, Annie Pixley in "Polly Middles" at the FOURTEENTH STREET, Digby Bell's "Jupiter" Co. at PALMER'S, De Wolf Hopper's "Wang" Co. at the BROADWAY, "Child of Fortune" at the CASINO, W. H. Crane in "The American Minister" at the STAR, "Across the Potomac" at PROCTOR'S TWENTY-THIRD STREET, Rosina Vokes' Co. in "The Paper Chase" at DALY'S, and Hebrew dramas, etc., at the ROUMANIA and the EIGHTH STREET. The two hundredth performance of "A Trip to Chinatown" was witnessed at the Madison Square night of 20 by a crowded house. The souvenirs were china placques. At the conclusion of the second act there were calls for Charles H. Hoyt, the author, and he came forward and made a speech. He appeared to be very happy, and, when he told the audience he was nearly tickled to death over the run of the piece, everybody believed him. He told how people foretold failure for him in taking a New York theatre, and that he was glad the failure didn't come. He thanked the public for its appreciation of his efforts, and was applauded. Annie Pixley's brief season at the Fourteenth Street closed night of 21. "Polly Middles" had been a comparative failure, and we doubt if it will be heard on the road next season. W. H. Crane's long engagement at the Star, which began Jan. 12 last, ended night of May 21, "The American Minister" having run since April 4. Rosina Vokes closed her three weeks' engagement at Daly's, as well as her season, night of 21. "Across the Potomac," which was originally acted at Proctor's April 18, was withdrawn for the season with its performance May 21. Manager Aug. Pitou has faith in it, and it will be toured next season. During its final week in town Mrs. Charles Gayler was out of the cast several nights, owing to the illness of her husband. Gussie Hercht played the role of Ellen throughout the past fortnight, in place of Charlotte Tittell, who has gone to Europe. Eugene Ormonde, who had been ill, resumed his place in the cast of "The Grey Mare" at the Lyceum during the past week. .....The first week of Bobby Gaylor in "Sport McAllister," at the BIJOU, developed good sized and highly delighted audiences.....At the GARDEN, the Bostonians had fair patronage during their opening week in "Robin Hood." Caroline Hamilton and Camille D'Arville alternated in the role of Maid Marian throughout the week.....The NEW PARK, HARRIGAN'S, the THALIA, NIBLO'S GARDEN, HARLEM THEATRE, METROPOLITAN OPERA HOUSE and (save as above noted) the ACADEMY OF MUSIC were dark. ..... Mrs. Alice J. Shaw, the whistler, gave her farewell concert of the present season at the Lyceum afternoon of 15. The attendance was small..... There were two benefits afternoon of 19. The child dancer known as La Regaloncita, who is to appear next season under the management of Charles B. Jefferson, had one at Palmer's. Several children besides herself were to take part in the performance, but the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children had four agents in the house to see that none of them sang or danced. It was intended that they should both sing and dance, and it was decided to let them go on and take the chances of prosecution and fine afterward; but Mr. Gerry wrote to Mr. Palmer that he should hold him responsible if he allowed the parts of the programme objected to to be given on his stage, and Mr. Palmer accordingly forbade the singing and dancing. The managers of La Regaloncita say that the society has objected to the child's dancing in private houses. They do not believe that the society has a right to do this, and they mean to make a test case. When it was announced at the clubs, hotels and box office that the dance had been cut out of the programme the sale of tickets was affected, and the theatre was not half filled when the curtain was rung up. La Regaloncita's manager told the spectators why the programme had been changed, and La Graciosa, the little dancer's sister, also made a short speech, at the close of which a number of stage children grouped about her waved flags and shouted: "Hail to our day of freedom, Sept. 1!" On that date the new law affecting the employment of children on the stage goes into effect. Those who assisted at the entertainment were Edward C. Dobson, who gave a banjo solo; John Hogan, whose imitations of well known actors were exceedingly clever; Johnnie McKever, the wee violin player; Loie Fuller, who gave an imitation of Marshall P. Wilder; two young women dancers from the Garden Theatre; Master Leon, the baby orator, and Ella Levy, who gave a recitation. La Regaloncita was first seen with her tiny sister, in a comedy sketch; then she gave a number of recitations, and finally, in lieu of dancing, she posed in a pretty new dress, and was recalled time and again. The little one was presented with many huge bouquets and floral designs, and as she tripped about the stage, bowing her acknowledgments, it was with difficulty that she kept her feet from responding to the music of the orchestra. The entertainment was under the auspices of Edwin Booth, Joseph Jefferson, A. M. Palmer and Charles Jefferson. About the theatre not many kind words were heard for Mr. Gerry. At the Fourteenth Street, afternoon of 19, a benefit was tendered Ernest Hutchinson, manager for Lydia Thompson, who was knocked down and severely injured a few weeks ago at the door of the same theatre, by an actor to whom he had refused free admission. The leading features of the programme were the first act of "Polly Middles," given by Annie Pixley and her company; "The Old Musician," played by Felix Morris, Morton Selten, Ferd. Gottschalk, Joseph Rolfe and Flora Clitherow, and Robert Hilliard's recitation in costume, "Fra Giacomo," in which he was assisted by Norman Conniers, Estelle Winston and Ray Silver. Mabel Stephenson gave a recitation and some of her bird songs, and there were songs by Camille D'Arville, Annie Myers, Jeff. De Angelis and Charles Bassett; a recitation by Helen Gilmore, and the serpentine dance by Juliette Senac. Mr. Hutchinson gains about $500 from the performance. .....TERRACE GARDEN opened for the Summer season night of 20, again under the management of Michael Heumann. There will be no opera this season. The old theatre has been torn down, and in its place will be erected one of the most magnificent playhouses in the city. The big concert garden, which runs from Fifty-eighth to Fifty-ninth Streets, has been transformed into an attractive resort where one may enjoy the cool air and the shade of big trees during the hot Summer months. The opening concert was given by the Romanys, a Roumanian gypsy band, under the leadership of Illes Aladar. The band play string music only. They made their first public appearance in this city night of 21..... The week stands finished 21 were: "The Police Patrol" at the COLUMBUS, Mattie Vickers in "Edelweiss" at the PEOPLE'S, Vernona Jarbeau in "Starlight" at the HARLEM OPERA HOUSE, Henry T. Chanfrap in "Kit" at the WINDSOR, "U and I" at H. R. JACOBS' and Margaret Mather in "The Egyptian" at the GRAND OPERA HOUSE. The Harlem Opera House closed for the season 21.....Variety kept its close hold on public favor, if one may judge from the box office returns at TONY PASTOR'S, the LONDON, MINER'S BOWERY and EIGHTH AVENUE, and the HARLEM OLYMPIC. The last named theatre closed for the season 21.....A special matinee at the Lyceum, 20, served for the first performance on any stage (in America, at any rate) of C. Haddon Chambers' two act dramatic story, "The Pipe of Peace," and also for the revival of G. W. Godfrey's three act comedy, "The Parvenu." We give the casts: "The Pipe of Peace"—Conway Osborne, Eugene Ormonde; Bertram Osborne, H. Bayntum; Dick Bell, Charles E. Inslee; Una Osborne, Miss Elliott-Page; Parsons, Jessie Fara. "The Parvenu"—The Hon. Charles Tracey, Herbert Kelcey; Claude Glynn, E. J. Ratcliffe; Sir Fulke Pettigrew, G. H. Leonard; Mr. Ledger, Augustus Cook; Bob, J. S. Hammersly; Lady Pettigrew, Mrs Thomas Whiffen; Lady Gwendolyn Pettigrew, Bessie Tyree; Mollie Ledger, Effie Shannon. The shorter play was only fairly successful. Both pieces were finely acted. Mr. Cook making a hit as the Parvenu. Mrs. Sarah Cowell Le Moyne gave readings between the plays....The first week of "Elysium," at HERRMANN'S, was not wildly successful, though the attendance was much larger than the entertainment merited. In deference to expressed disapproval, the objectionable character in "Elysium" has been eliminated, and in its place a French major-domo has been substituted. Max Figman, who played the part, has retired from the cast, and the new character is now played by Frank Drew. Many other changes suggested during the past week have been made in the piece. Lionel E. Lawrence's place in cast the was taken after 18 by Thomas Burke, formerly of Campbell and Burke. Dora Percival, who plays the role of Selmah very neatly, was out of the cast 20, 21.

AN AUCTION SALE of seats for the opening of the Fifth Avenue Theatre, May 28, with "The Robber of the Rhine," was held 13 at the Madison Square Theatre. It was poorly attended, and nearly the entire house was purchased by speculators. Two of the boxes were reserved for the Gilsey estate and Manager Miner, and two rows of the orchestra were reserved for the musicians. The first box sold brought $50. A. B. De Freece paid $21 for a box and a speculator paid $30 for one and $20 apiece for two others.

MARIE HUBERT-FROHMAN has sold her building on West Twenty-eight Street, known as the Frohman Dramatic Exchange, and has bought through her father, P. G. Hubert, No. 57 West Twenty-fourth Street, where a new building, far superior to the old premises, is to be at once erected. The Frohman Exchange will remain in its present quarters until the new building is ready.

THE mortgage of the Casino by the New York Concert Co., Limited, to William H. Arnoux, was recorded May 16. The mortgage is for five years, and the amount is $100,000. Albert Aronson, treasurer of the New York Concert Co., which owns the building, said when seen that the mortgage meant nothing at all. "In 1884," said he, "the building was mortgaged for $100,000. The bonds have matured, and we simply issued new ones. That is all there is to it."

A PERMIT has been granted by the Buildings Department to Robert and Ogden Goelet for the erection of a theatre at Broadway and Thirty-eighth Street. This is the theatre to be controlled by Abbey, Schoeffel & Grau, and the plans filed give promise of one of the finest playhouses of this city. The work of building will not begin till May 1, 1893.

THE managers of "The Forty Thieves" have paid $2,984.36 duty on the costumes and effects brought over from Europe by Wemyss Henderson on the steamer City of Paris on her last trip. Mr. Henderson argued that the goods should be admitted free under the decision in the Agnes Huntington case, but the customs people held that they were dutiable. The duty was paid under protest.

AT a special matinee at the Madison Square Thursday, May 26, Alberta Gallatin will make her first appearance in New York in a Shakespearian part, playing Rosalind. Otis Skinner and Chas. B. Hanford will be in the cast.

THE lawyers for Maida Craigen in her suit to recover $4,300 from Margaret Mather concluded May 18 to adopt Judge Patterson's suggestion, and allow a juror to be withdrawn. This was done that a suit might be brought in the equity part of the court to set aside the contract by which she could be discharged by Miss Mather on two weeks' notice, which, Miss Craigen declares, she never knowingly signed.

THE new theatre which T. Henry French is to build on Eighth Avenue, Forty-first and Forty-second Streets, is to be called the American. Nearly ten of the fifteen buildings on the theatre's site have already been torn down, and it is expected that work will begin on the foundations in a week.

THE CASINO ROOF GARDEN will open June 1. M. Stainville, the French singer and mimic, has been specially engaged for the Summer. He sailed from Paris May 21.

THE jury in the case of Charles De Forest for assaulting Ernest Hutchinson, manager of the Lydia Thompson Co., at the Fourteenth Street Theatre, April 13, found the defendant guilty of assault in the third degree May 17. On 20 he was sentenced to nine months in the penitentiary. De Forest was taken to the penitentiary 21. His counsel gave notice that he would appeal the case on the ground that in his charge to the jury the Recorder used the words: "I can see no reason for rendering any other verdict than guilty." Mr. Levien says the foreman of the jury came to him after the verdict and said that if he would draw up a petition recommending De Forest to executive clemency every member of the jury would sign it, and this was done. Mr. Levien will apply for a writ of habeas corpus.

AT THE BIJOU, Bobby Gaylor, in "Sport McAllister," entered the second week of his engagement May 23, to a good sized house.

MANAGER J. W. ROSENQUEST, of the Bijou and Fourteenth Street Theatres, returned from abroad May 21.

A RATHER lively meeting of the Actors' Fund was held May 17 to discuss the amending of section seven of the bylaws so that it will conform with the act of incorporation as amended by the Senate and Assembly. The amended section is as follows: Section 7—At the annual meeting to be held in 1892 there shall be elected by ballot a president, two vice presidents, a treasurer and a secretary. Said officers shall hold office for three years, or until their successors are elected, and thereafter the said officers shall always be elected for a term of three years. At the said annual meeting there shall also be elected twenty-one trustees, who shall at the first meeting of the board of trustees thereafter held be divided into three classes of seven trustees each. The trustees of the first class shall hold office for the term of three years; the trustees of the second class shall hold office for the term of two years, and the trustees of the third class shall hold office for the term of one year. The trustees elected at every subsequent annual meeting shall hold office for the term of three years, or until their successors are elected." This amendment to the laws of the association was made at the request of the trustees of the fund, who asked ex-Judge Dittenhoefer to draw it up and present it at Albany. At the meeting 17 it was claimed that there were flaws in the amendment, and Vice President Louis Aldrich announced that at the annual meeting of the fund, to be held next month, he would move that the mistakes in it be rectified. When the motion to adopt the amendment was put it was carried, despite all the discussion, unanimously. The idea of the amendment is to prevent a clique calling a meeting and electing its own officers. Previous to the general meeting the trustees of the fund held a meeting and passed favorably on the cases of twenty-seven improvident professionals who wanted relief. A meeting of the Executive Committee was also held, at which William H. Crane, Joseph Brooks and De Wolf Hopper were elected life members of the Fund.

DORIS' MUSEUM.—The usual steadily large business is the stereotyped report from this house. There will be but a short Summer closing, barely enough in which to clean and brighten the interior of the house, and make the repairs made necessary through the ordinary wear and tear of an almost constantly crowded building. There will be no change in the museum department system next season, but the policy of giving short dramas in Theatre No. 1 came to an end last week. The return to the vaudeville form of entertainment is, in Manager Doris' judgment, best suited to the tastes of his patrons. The museum halls are replete with attractions this week, prominent of which are Zuluma, re-engaged, with her den of alligators; Rosie, bearded lady; Minnie Hartman, three footed lady; Electra, "dynamic phenomenon;" Walter Wentworth, contortionist; Eileen Grantley, Albino, and Aaron's Lee's fortune telling camp. In Theatre No. 1 the specialty people are Ryan and Morris, Loring and Leslie, Seda Wilson, Henry Whyte and Wm. Judson. In No. 2 Parker and Retardo head a bill of attractive merit, which also includes Thos. C. Moya, John Leslie, Etta Maywood and others.

THOMAS W. PRIOR, who with Harry Askin manages the Digby Bell Opera Co., applied for an injunction through his lawyers May 18, to restrain Mr. Askin, Samuel E. Rorke and Powell Crosby from interfering in the partnership of Askin & Prior. Mr. Prior says he asked for the injunction in order that his rights in "Jupiter" might be protected. Askin & Rorke managed "The Tar and the Tartar" Co. during its travels, and when its season ended about three weeks ago Mr. Rorke brought suit against his partner for $6,000. The latter retaliated by bringing a counter suit. Since then the managers made an agreement, and the suits were withdrawn. Mr. Prior says that he isn't sure the agreement is a good one according to law, and he doesn't want Mr. Rorke or Mr. Crosby at some future time swooping down upon Mr. Askin and incidentally crippling him, who has had no part in their quarrels.

JUSTICE LAWRENCE in Supreme Court, Chambers, has dismissed the application for alimony and counsel fees made in behalf of Esther Warburton, daughter of the late Selina Dolaro, who claims to be, by a common law marriage, the wife of Barclay E. Warburton. The costs are also imposed on the plaintiff.

SIG. ALFREDI BIANCIFIARI, a well known male ballet dancer in Europe, arrived here May 18, under engagement at Eldorado, to take a part in the new spectacle, "Egypt Through Centuries," which is to be given on June 4. Biancifiari was greeted at the dock by his fellow countryman Augusto Francioli, the director of amusements at Eldorado. He was premier dancer at La Scala, Milan; Grand Opera, Paris, and the Alhambra, London. He will be surrounded by seventy-five male dancers, and will appear every night in the dances in which the premiere danseuse is engaged.

GEORGE SWEET, the baritone, will be heard in De Koven's new opera, "The Fencing Master," which J. M. Hill will bring out at the Standard. Mrs. Pemberton Hicks has also been engaged.

MRS. CARRIE HANGEN, wife of the proprietor of the Eighth Street Theatre, slapped Fire Patrolman John Kelly in the face May 17. Mr. Kelly was stationed at the theatre, and he says that he told Mrs. Hangen she must keep the aisles cleared, and she slapped him. Mrs. Hangen says Mr. Kelly attempted to get into the women's dressing room. She was arrested, and Justice Divver, in the Jefferson Market Police Court, held her in $500 bail for examination.

WILTON LACKAYE failed to appear before Judge Cowing in General Sessions May 13 to press the charge against Bartender Diffey for assaulting him at Trainor's Aug. 2, 1890, and the case was thrown out of court.

DARK.—The New Park, Harrigan's, Daly's, the Academy, the Union Square, Niblo's Garden, Thalia, Harlem Theatre and Star are dark this week.

"THE GREY MARE'S" run at the Lyceum will not close until June 4. The theatre will then remain dark until August, when E. H. Sothern will open his annual engagement there. The Lyceum stock company will rest until Aug. 22, when it will begin its annual tour. Georgia Cayvan sailed for Japan from San Francisco, May 21. Messrs. Kelcey, Ratcliffe, Bayntun and Harbury, and Mrs. Whiffen will spend their vacation in Europe, and the other members of the company will seek rest in the country. Manager Daniel Frohman and E. H. Sothern both sailed for Europe 21.

LIONEL E. LAWRENCE, who had been playing in Fleron's "Elysium" Co. was a prisoner May 18 in the Tombs Police Court. He was arrested at the request of the authorities of Baltimore. He was represented by WORTH'S MUSEUM.—There seems to be no cessation of the enormous business at this house, and the management have wisely concluded to keep open during the Summer. This week's attractions include Wild Rose, a wild girl from Yucatan; Nayo, Guatamalian dwarf; Senoj, nondescript, in funny boxing bouts; Prof. Smith and trained goat; Prof. West, fire king; Alice Raymond in banjo and singing solos; Guilem Houssin, magician; Yetsuma, Japanese fruit maker; Stephen Stephens, Punch and Judy, and Prof. Worth's lectures. Mackley's Merry Makers concluded their series of dramas in the theatre 21, when Fred Mackley presented Stage Manager E. H. Banker with a fine gold watch. Appropriate speeches were made. The return to vaudeville performances occurred this week. The following appear: Gilbert Sisters, the Earls, Horace Randall and Andy Collum.

MINER'S EIGHTH AVENUE THEATRE.—The Rose Hill Folly Co. opened to a good house May 23. Rice & Barton, the managers, have a well balanced and most competent organization, and their former engagements at this house have been attended with success. Next week, the French Folly Co.

"THE FALL OF PLEVNA," the South Beach, S. I., Summer spectacle, will open May 25. A. L. Parkes is the manager and Capt. J. C. Summers press agent.

ALEXIS LAW GISIKO, of the "Elysium" Co., and Clara Bonne, a popular young actress, were married May 22, at the Little Church Around the Corner.

KOSTER & BIAL'S.—About the strongest vaudeville show prepared this season by the management is now in vogue. Besides Carmencita in new Spanish dances, the Spanish Students and the French dance duellists, Dufour and Hartley, another fresh importation from foreign shores found favor. The newcomers are the Brothers Borani, styled the "disappearing demons," and their first Kostar's appearance on Monday night, May 23, was very conspicuous. Their act calls for the introduction of several novel and startling electrical effects. A feature of the programme was the reappearance of the Glinserettis, a half a dozen acrobats who are ideals of physical manhood and who present a very picturesque and striking specialty. Joseph Natus, a well known tenor, is also a new face this week. On Monday, 30, the current burlesque will be replaced by "Pocahontas," a new travesty, in which Madge Lessing and Agnes Evans will create the principal roles.

LONDON THEATRE, The Fay Foster Burlesque Co. drew large houses Monday afternoon and evening May 24. The opening skit, "Our Pleasure Party," introduced the entire company. The olio is made up of fine talent. Ruby Hart sang several ballads. The King Sisters danced, sang and posed successfully. The Newcombe Duo, in a sabo dance did well. Frank Clayton, in his eccentric musical act, created much laughter. John and Edna Vilseq, in their sketch, incited to mirth. Hamlin and Hamlin knocked about to the queen's taste. Ramza and Arno, in their grotesque horizontal bar act, received much applause. Mr. Arno displays his cat like agility in climbing around the box and balcony railing. Bonnie Thornton renewed her former success by her singing. The burlesque, "Dear Minnie," is a very funny creation, and at its conclusion sent the audience home in a smiling mood. John Marion as Cabby, Frank Clayton as Ravoy, Ruby Hart as "Dear Minnie," and the rest of the cast imbued the piece with plenty of spirit. The company closes the season of thirty eight weeks 28, and Manager Oppenheimer is highly pleased with the financial result of the tour. Next season's opening has been booked for Oct. 10. "Pop" Siddons will remain in his position as advance courier. Ida Siddons, who has been touring through the West for the past three years, will return East to head the company. Next week, Billy Lester's Co.

MINER'S BOWERY THEATRE.—Reilly & Wood's Show opened to the usual large houses here May 23. A hearty greeting was extended to all the favorites, and "Hades and the 400" went with its accustomed vim. The season closes 28. Next week, the City Sports Burlesque Co.

H. R. JACOBS' THEATRE.—"One of the Bravest" is the attraction this week. The fire scene introducing the six Arabian horses, elicited hearty demonstrations of approval. Chas. McCarthy, as Larry Howard, endeavored, to the best of his ability, and successfully, to please the large audience Monday evening, May 23. His efforts were appreciated, as was manifested by the applause which he continually received. Wm. Cronin, as Mrs. Grogan, evoked considerable mirth. Jas. S. Hughes was effective in the role of the villain. Daisy Mayer, as Rosa Grogin, was agreeable. Harry Parker, as Buster Kelly, Chas. O'Brien, as Pete, Herbert Mack, as Zeke Chamberlain, Master La Martine, as Rats, Frank N. Elmer, as John Heath, Austin Hart, as Policeman McGinty, Alice Pennoyer, as Mrs. John Heath, Little Helen, as Little Mary, Geo. Sutton, C. E. Cooley, Geo. Fox and G. W. Shireby were also good. Next week, "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.—"Irish Inspiration," a sensational drama in four acts, received its initial production on any stage at this house Night of May 21. Though Richard P. Taylor is billed as the author of this addition to the list of Irish plays of today, the incidents, and probably the foundation of the drama were furnished by John Walsh, a player in Harrigan's Co., of this city. Manager A. H. Sheldon, of the People's, staged the production and worthily too. New scenery had been painted by D. Frank Dodge, and mechanical effects and new properties had been prepared by Daniel Parnell and Louis Filbert, respectively, all of whom are also of Harrigan's staff of workers. They have done their work well. The entire production is the enterprise of Manager Mart Hanley. In the play there is much to commend. The material is good, and there's a plenty of it—too much, in fact, as the play is now arranged. The story becomes at times disjointed through the unnecessary crowding of incidents and effects into one scene. As an instance, act two finishes with attempts by the conspirators to murder two men and burn the heroine in an old mill at one time. It would be better to distribute the promiscuous attempts at wholesale murder throughout the play, for, had the villains succeeded in their base efforts, the play would be ended then and there. There are many familiar scenes and remembrances of Irish plays long gone before, but they are not given with the effect possible. The rescue of the child in act one lacked the necessary briskness and the same fault may be mentioned regarding a similar scene ending act three. The play, as before noted was staged in a liberal manner, and with a radical rearrangement, will no doubt prove a profitable venture on the road. Of the company, many of its members are players of known excellence; still, with few exceptions, they seemed unfortunately cast in characters ill adapted to their capabilities. R. A. Roberts does not fill the bill as delineator of a neat Irish comedy. Nestor Lennon was also out of place as a young Irish gentleman. John F. Ward was easily the best of the male characters as the collector of rents and willing tool of the scheming squire, which role was well played by Daniel Jarrett. Songs by R. A. Roberts, a clever Irish jig by Wm. McGonigal, bagpipe solos and a boxing bout by Vic and Lou Davenport were the interpolated numbers and all were deservedly encored. Clara Coleman as Winnie, was the best of the female characters. We give the cast in full: Con Reilly, R. A. Roberts; Alan Fitzgerald, Nestor Lennon; Squire Manuel Fox, Daniel Jarrett; Michael Rooney, John F. Ward; Danny O'Rourke, Wm. McCready; First Peasant, Dave Higgins; Pat O'Toole, Vic Davenport; Lanty, Lou Davenport; Micky O'Callahan, Wm. McGonigal; Judge, Gorman Benedict; Counsellor, Wm. Spencer; Jailor, Henry McGivern; Bailiff, P. J. Touhey; Lady Margaret, Belle Melville; Mrs. O'Neill, Bessie Hunter; Winnie, Clara Coleman; Janon, Emilie Rickaby; Edey, Vallie Egar. Executive staff—Business manager, Owen Ferree; stage manager, Lewis Mitchell. Next week will close the present season at the People's, where will be given the first city presentation of "The House on the Marsh."

FOURTEENTH STREET THEATRE.—"Imagination," a three act farce comedy by Sydney Rosenfeld, had its first metropolitan presentation on Monday evening, May 21. A large audience applauded it heartily and continuously for two hours. The original production of "Imagination" occurred April 21 at Ocean Grove, N. J., when the detailed plot of the story was told in these columns. Mr. Rosenfeld's ability as a flippant fun writer is well exemplified in his newest work. While there is nothing startling in the idea or motive of "Imagination," the humor is always crisp, original and agreeable, and the characterizations are fresh and entertaining. "Imagination" is American to the core. The scenes are laid in New York, the dialogue and incidents concern domestic topics, and the wit is right up to date. A company fully qualified for the tasks assigned them gave a highly praiseworthy interpretation of Mr. Rosenfeld's fantastic essay. A pronounced hit was scored by Frank Hatch in the role of an impetuously affectionate German pianist. The complete cast: Harry Jellyman, Harry Hotto; Martha Jellyman, Mrs. Georgie Dickson; Mabel Jellyman, Bijou Fernandez; Tom Dawson, W. W. Wilson; Dick Brennan, Wilton Lackaye; Henderson Goodly, Al. Hampton; Minnie Matlock, Lizzie Hudson Collier; Rev. Calvin Gilder Lindsay, Burt; Solomon Ricketts, Chas. Stanley; Caroline Ricketts, Helen Kinnaird; Madge, Marion Elmore; Prof. Schmidt, Frank Hatch; Mr. Brown, Joseph Rabaud; Mr. Jones, Henry Smith; Kitty Cline, Katherine Erskine; Popsy, Lizzie May Ulmer; Flanagan, Harry Tansy; Mrs. Birky, Katherine Erskine; Mrs. Velver, Jane Grafton; Officer, John C. Elliot; Stranger, Harry Tansy. "Imagination" was staged by James A. Herne. The company is under the management of Edwin H. Price, with W. H. Rowles as business representative.

TONY PASTOR'S THEATRE.—It is a veritable James dandy of a programme that Business Manager H. S. Sanderson has put into force this week. The bookings include the Cosmo Bros., capital dancers and expert fancy paper tearers; Jessie K. Giles, a pretty and versatile character singer; Van Leer and Barton, knock about comedians; William Jerome, the prince of parody singers; Fitzgibbon Sisters, charming duettists; Prof. Imro Fox, a clever conjurer; Polly Holmes, a vivacious vocalist; James F. Hoey, the jester whom everybody knows and applauds; Musical Dale, an entertaining instrumentalist; Frank Bush, the king of dialecticians; the Clipper Quartet, in their highly enjoyable musical melange, "Ginger," and Katie and William Harbeck in their novel acrobatic specialty.

HUBER'S PALACE MUSEUM.—A woman who has the features of a lion, the head of a lion, and both covered with the tawny colored, black tipped mane of a lion, is a very unusual and rare freak of nature, yet all these are possessed by Mme. Howard, and it is because of these peculiar adornments that she is denominated "the lion faced woman." The peculiar marking, for it is nothing else, was caused by severe fright sustained by her mother immediately preceding her birth in Sierre Leone. Sampson the youngest of the strong men who have been seen here recently, and one of the best of them all will give a new series of exhibitions of strength during the week. In all the curio halls there are new attractions this week. The Wood Trio Specialty Co. and a dozen or more tip top vaudeville performers hold forth on the stage. Business continues very satisfactory.

VIOLA CLIFTON will be tendered a benefit at the London Theatre May 29. A long list of volunteers is promised, and a first class performance should be the result.

THE ROMANYS, a Hungarian Band, Illes Aladar, leader, will be the attraction for the Summer season at Terrace Garden under Michael Heumann's management.

"ELYSIUM," radically revised in dialogue and considerably improved in action, entered upon its second week at Herrmann's Theatre on Monday night, May 23. Max Figman, who had been slated to retire from the cast 21, remains in the company, playing the role of a French major domo, altered from the original and very objectionable Mohammed. Frank Drew had been engaged to replace Mr. Figman, but other arrangements were made at the last moment. Dora Percival, a sweet singer and a pretty and shapely woman, was absent from the cast 20 and 21, on account of sickness. She resumed the role of Selmah 23. Gertrude Reynolds, a clever and graceful dancer was added to the company 23. Miss Reynolds made her professional debut at Pastor's last season, when she scored a flattering success for the neatness and general excellence of her dances. Her first appearance on Broadway was equally victorious.

"THE MIDNIGHT ALARM" attracted a very large audience May 23 at the Grand Opera House. Robert Neil and Frederick Julian satisfactorily sustained the principal parts, while Charles Mortimer, Will F. Phillips, William J. Sully, George B. Berrell, Kyrle Kennedy, J. H. Searles, P. J. Wilson, C. J. Jones, Edith Julian, Rose Bendit, Berrell and Cassie Francis gave capable support. The realistic effects introduced elicited hearty applause. Kate Claxton opens here 30 in "The Two Orphans." The benefit of the attaches takes place 31.

PROCTOR'S TWENTY-THIRD STREET THEATRE.—"Old Jed Prouty," with popular and clever Richard Golden as the shrewd Yankee, opened an engagement at this house May 23 to a large and enthusiastic audience. Mr. Golden repeated with emphasis his Union Square success of several seasons ago, and he is likely to have a long and profitable stay. The cast is generally good, Rebecca Warren in particular making a hit as Martha. The scenery is excellent.

WINDSOR THEATRE.—"Ten Nights in a Bar Room" is the closing week's bill at the above house. It opened to a big audience May 23.

Harlem.—The last week of the season in this part of the city opened May 23, at all the houses, excepting the Columbus and the Opera House. The season at the latter house closed 21.

COLUMBUS.—Business continued good the past week. Frederick Paulding opened to a good attendance 23. This house will remain open until July. Next week, "O'Dowd's Neighbors."

OLYMPIC.—Gus Hill's Co. played to good houses last week. "Ma and Jack" opened to a big house 23. This will be the last week of the season. Manager Curtin takes his benefit 30, when he promises a good show.

HARLEM MUSEUM.—This house closes 28. Manager Toovey sails for Europe June 7, returning in time for the Fall opening. Curio hall—Piejol Bros., Rangoon and Loquella, Fred Marx, Stanella, Chas. Brooks, Millie Eunice and Lewis and Rose. Stage—Geo. and Maude Ricketts, Leah Mitchell, Jas. L. Barry and John J. Barron, Geo. H. Willis, Jessie Carll and Geo. M. Devere.

PAVILION.—Wm. Judson, Dan Collins and Dick Welch, Jennie Pickert, Harry Edwards and Daisy Kernell, Roach and Castleton, Pete Lemaire and Billy Carter.

THE HARLEM THEATRE remains tenantless.

NEW YORK STATE.

Brooklyn.—The Columbia Theatre closed its season May 21, and the local list will be further shortened this week by darkness at the Lee Avenue Academy. However, the Academy of Music fills in the breach, and, with a strong attraction, will draw the patronage of many stay at homes. The remainder of the season is short, but some good things may be looked for before the fall of the last curtain. The business last week showed the plain effects of unfavorable weather.

DEATHS IN THE PROFESSION.

ROSE AMICK, a midget, known in the museum world as Rose Leclaire, died May 20, at Newmarket, Clark County, Ind. Her height was less than three feet, and her weight only 45lb. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Amick, both of whom are portly. Fifteen of the twenty-eight years of Miss Amick's life were spent in traveling as a freak. P. T. Barnum discovered her, and with his show she traveled over this country, Canada and Europe. The midget and an 800lb woman for several seasons exhibited themselves as sisters. Miss Amick leaves a large sum of money in bank.

JOHN FARLEY, widely known throughout the United States and Canada as an interpreter of sacred music, died at Boston May 18, aged sixty-three years. He was born at Dublin, Ire., and developed rare musical talent. In early manhood he sang tenor parts in the opera houses of his native city. He emigrated to Canada, where he continued his musical career until 1855, when he moved to this city. He abandoned the operatic stage and became State Inspector of Emigration for two years. For twenty years he had been connected with the choir of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Boston.

THE RING.

Sullivan and Corbett.

John L. Sullivan appeared nightly before crowded audiences at Holmes' Star Theatre, Brooklyn, during last week, meeting with an ovation at each performance. This week and next the company will play in Boston, Mass., after which their season will come to an end, and Sullivan, after a few days' rest, will enter upon a course of preparation for the championship fight with the pet of California, Jim Corbett. Charley Johnston has secured the services of the champion handball player, Phil Casey, as trainer for the big fellow, and they will be located in a secluded spot on the shores of Long Island, where the work of physical improvement will be carried on. It is the intention to commence operations about July 1, and Sullivan will remain there till within a few days of the date selected for the battle. Jack Ashton will doubtless work with Casey, and perhaps Joe Lannen will be of the party. John L. had expressed a preference for Bay St. Louis as training quarters, but of course he deferred to the wishes and judgment of his backer, who desires to have him under his eye, as it were, up to the day of fighting. Corbett had quite a flattering reception at the hands of his old friends at the gymnasium of the Olympic Athletic Club, San Francisco, Cal., on the evening of May 20. Among the large crowd present were many ladies, and the president of the club took occasion to speak in highly complimentary terms of "Pompadour Jim" as a gentleman and a pugilist, although in referring to Corbett's fistic accomplishments he rather allowed his personal feelings to run away with his better judgment. At the conclusion of his speech the star of the evening was the recipient of numerous bouquets. Afterwards him and Jim Daly gave an interesting display of scientific boxing, which won for them much applause. Corbett will come East soon, and will take up his training quarters on the outskirts of Asbury Park, the residents of which Summer resort of the just will doubtless regard the presence of so distinguished a member of the pugilistic fraternity as a great acquisition.

Dixon vs. Johnson.

Fred. Johnson, the English lightweight pugilist, arrived at this port May 19, on board the steamer Majestic, accompanied by Ben Rowlands, who will be his trainer and manager during his sojourn in the States. Johnson comes to fulfil his engagement with George Dixon before the Coney Island Athletic Club, and he was met at Quarantine by the tug Hudson, with members of the C. I. A. C. and a number of other sports on board, who gave the new arrivals a warm welcome to our shores. As the articles for the fight did not suit either Johnson or Dixon in some respects, a meeting was held on May 20 for the purpose of considering them and arriving at some satisfactory mutual agreement. The arrangements were very easily made, both sides manifesting a desire to come to terms quickly, as both meant only fight, and in a brief space of time the document was put into satisfactory shape. The agreement now calls for the men to fight at 117lb. weighing in at three o'clock in the afternoon of the day of fighting, the men to be in the ring at nine o'clock P. M., or the man absent to forfeit the $500 placed on deposit at the time of signing articles; the fight to be of twenty rounds or more, for a purse of $5 000, of which the loser is to receive $500 and the fight to take place at the headquarters of the Coney Island Athletic Club on Monday evening, June 27, which is nine days later than the date originally fixed. Johnson is a young fellow of pleasing appearance, standing about 5ft. 4in. in height, and he has an excellent record as a glove fighter, his most creditable victory being that gained over Stanton Abbott, who is now matched with Austin Gibbons.

Sullivan is Sound.

John L. Sullivan, last week, placed himself in the hands of Dr. George F. Shrady, of this city, who made a careful personal examination of the great pugilist, with a result that was especially gratifying to the boxer and his friends. The doctor found him sound in every respect, and at the close Dr. Shrady expressed himself in the following words:

"In all my life I have never seen such a magnificent specimen of muscular development, and, indeed, I do not think that another such man is living today. You are in perfect health, Mr. Sullivan. Your heart, liver, stomach, lungs and other organs are all performing their work properly. You are physically sound, and with some of the superfluous flesh in the abdominal region removed, your powers of endurance would be remarkable."

He further said that he was satisfied that, in his present state of health, there was not a man living who would have a chance to defeat Sullivan on his merits. John L. submitted to the examination in order to satisfy himself and his backers regarding the actual state of his health and physique, and three better pleased men that they were after it was over could not be found in a week's walk.

Death of Marcellus Baker.

This old time New England pugilist died at his residence at Boston, Mass., on Monday, May 23, of pneumonia. Deceased was born, we believe, in Maine, and he first figured in the P. R. in a match with Charles Belcher, for a purse, at Bangor, Me., July 13, 1857, being defeated in an hour and a quarter, during which fifteen rounds were contested. On July 22 of the following year he again met Belcher, and this time they fought a draw, the battle which was for a stake of $200, lasting through seven rounds. On Aug. 31, 1872, Baker gained his first victory within the ropes, his adversary being Jim Hayes. They fought for a purse at Campobello, N. B., and Baker won in one round, occupying fifteen minutes. Since that time deceased engaged in several important glove contests, but for many years has been virtually on the retired list, so far as engaging even in sparring exhibitions was concerned. When at his best Marcellus was clever in the use of his bunches, but was never a glutton for punishment.

A GOOD DEED.—Johnny Keating, ex champion of feather weights, upon hearing of the serious illness of his old friend and admirer, Ned James, promptly sent him a check for ten dollars, which was thankfully received. The act did credit to Keating's heart, but that has always been Johnny's practical way of sympathizing with the sick and unfortunate. Ned was the referee in the memorable fight for the feather weight championship between Keating and the late Dick Hollywood, at Gravesend, L. I., Jan. 11, 1864, which resulted in a draw after fighting over an hour. There are others of the veteran sporting writer's old friends who might well emulate the example set by Johnny Keating. Any who may desire to render assistance to a worthy but unfortunate sporting journalist can forward their contributions to THE CLIPPER office, and they will be delivered promptly.

A PRIEST STOPS A FIGHT.—Paddy Burke and Paddy Parks, two local bruisers, engaged in a serious fight at Plains, Pa., May 21. The battle took place in a hall, and four desperate rounds had been fought when some one cried, "Here comes the priest!" There was a wild scramble to escape from the place. Some jumped from upstairs windows. The fighters made their escape, too. They were nothing but their tights. After the place had been cleared it was discovered that Father Phillips had not come on the scene, but a messenger from his house. The messenger was requested to take the names of those present, and the priest said he would prosecute them all.

PETER MAHER sailed away for old Ireland on Saturday, May 21, to be gone three months. Notwithstanding his defeat by Bob Fitzsimmons, Peter, under the shrewd management of his staunch friend, Billy Madden, who did not desert him after his reverse, has been very successful in exhibitionizing, and he carried home a lot more money than he brought here, or than he ever handled before. When he returns Madden hopes to get on a match for him with George Godfrey. If he don't get on with the colored Hubite, then Billy will look elsewhere, and will doubtless meet with success.

TWO FIGHTS IN THE SAME RING.—Seven hundred and fifty sports from Boston and places between Providence, R. I., and the Hub on May 20 witnessed a fight between Barney Hubbard, of Boston, and Mike Cooney, of Providence, and a ten round match between Andy Bowen, of Malden, Mass., and Cliff Gordon. Gordon was knocked out in five rounds. In the Hubbard-Cooney fight it took twenty-three rounds to bring it to a close. In the last round Cooney went down from a right hander on the jaw, and as he did not have strength enough to respond again the fight was given to Hubbard.

ARTHUR MELLEY, of the Riverside Club, of Cambridge, and William McNulty, of Lawrence, Mass., met at the Opera House, Lawrence, on Monday evening, May 16, to battle for gate money. Melley was seconded by Billy Fraser and Dave Ross, and McNulty was handled by Patsy Libbey and William Bell. It was a contest for blood and plenty was drawn. After twelve hard fought rounds Inspector Carey stopped the fight, and the referee, Daniel Saunders, declared it a draw.

JOE FOWLER the feather weight pugilist, died at the Flatbush (L. I.) Hospital on May 17, after a prolonged illness. He was born in England, was a clever boxer and had a good record in the ring, although having figured in but few fights within the ropes. He had been in this country since 1880, and for years he was a familiar figure at sparring exhibitions in and around the metropolis. He leaves a widow and two children in needy circumstances.

A FIGHT IN THE OLD STYLE, with knuckles bared and on turf, for a purse, took place between Patsy Lynch and Jim Clark, near London, Eng., on May 10. Lynch had the best of the fighting from the start, and, being the stronger man by considerable, he tossed his adversary about like a bag of salt, yet when he appeared to have the game all in his hands he quit like a steer, and Clark was given the battle, after fighting eighteen rounds.

BILLY MANNING was convicted at Los Angeles, Cal., of assault with a deadly weapon, committed in February last, and was to have been sentenced on May 23. Had Billy made use of the weapons with which he makes his living within the ropes, instead of resorting to the revolver or knife, he would not now find himself behind the bars. Of all persons, there is no excuse for a professional pugilist making use of deadly weapons.

TOM WILLIAMS, the Australian boxer, and Harry Nickless, of London, Eng., have been matched to box twenty rounds, for $500 a side and a purse of $500, the contest to take place at the National Sporting Club some time in July. They will wear 4oz. gloves and the battle will be governed by Queensberry rules.

GEORGE GODFREY, the Boston dark skinned boxer, set sail from Boston, Mass., for England on Saturday, May 21. He goes over mainly for the purpose of witnessing the battle between Peter Jackson and Paddy Slavin, and may be one of Jackson's seconds.

Fitzsimmons and Pritchard.

Bob Fitzsimmons, upon learning that Ted Prichard would not consent to declare his fight with Jack O'Brien off, notwithstanding the inducements held out by the Olympic Club, of New Orleans, now sensibly says that he will fight the winner of that battle, or Pritchard, even though the latter should be defeated in the coming engagement. He has therefore decided to give up stage arrangements made for the future, and shortly enter upon the business of physical preparation for the encounter with the Englishman at the Crescent City in September. It is not improbable that the Australian was influenced in arriving at this decision by the prospect that Jim Hall, who is now in England, might steal a march on him by getting on a match with Pritchard, or the winner of the fight between the latter and the Welshman.

Rumpus at a Drawn Fight.

A dispatch from Salt Lake City, Utah., dated May 20, says: "The ten round contest between Jim Williams, champion of Utah, and Charles Lange, the former agreeing to knock Lange out in ten rounds, was fought last night, almost ending in a riot. Lange was badly used up in the second round but the referee lost his head and the result was that 1,500 people raised pandemonium, and the riot was increased by the breaking of chairs and benches. Finally the police interfered in time to nip the riot in its inception and placed both principals and Ed. Noble, Herbert Slade, W. E. Hawley and Jim Kennelly, seconds, under arrest and cleared the hall. The referee gave the fight to Williams, and as thousands of dollars were wagered on the result the dissatisfaction is increased."

A MATCH has been made between Ed. Smith, of Denver, Col., and Paddy Shea, of Kansas, the former undertaking to knock Shea out in ten three minute rounds, with three ounce gloves, for $1 000, on June 9, at Wachita, Kan. They are not confined to weight.

JIM HALL and Joe Choynski are sparring at the Novelty Theatre, London, Eng. Charley Davies, their manager, is endeavoring to bring Hall and Ted Pritchard together in a match at catch weight.

BILL SLAVIN announces his readiness to fight Johnny Reagan, Pat Cahill, Bill Dunn or Harry Neumyer for a fair purse before the Coney Island Athletic Club.

A CABLEGRAM announces the death of Bill England the London pugilist, which took place last week. No particulars are given.

Rowing in the Rain.

The majority of patrons of rowing sport thought that the regatta of the Harlem Regatta Association would be postponed in consequence of the rain storm that set in at an early hour on Saturday, May 21, and continued without intermission throughout the day, becoming heavier in the afternoon. But they were mistaken, the managers of the affair concluding to race, rain or shine, whether anybody went to see the sport or not. The weather conditions effectually spoiled the affair as a spectacle, besides making it very uncomfortable for the participants and officials, not to mention the reportorial fraternity; but we presume it saved some of the out of town oarsmen some valuable time, which was worthy of some consideration. It was unfortunate, however, that Jupiter Pluvius should have stepped in and spoiled sport, for had everything been favorable the regatta would have been a memorable one. The wind and driving rain chilled the competing oarsmen to the marrow, and prevented good performances, while the surroundings were of the dreariest character imaginable. The distance rowed was one mile straightaway in all the races save one, that for the senior eight oared shells, which was a mile and a half, straightaway. Very few persons outside of members of the clubs on the river witnessed the races, and there was an entire absence of the young ladies who usually crowd the barge at the terminus of the course and smile upon the competitors from the balconies of the club houses. The chief winner during the day was Edwin Hedley, of the Vesper Boat Club, of the Quaker City, who not only lowered the colors of Fred Hawkins, of the Manhattan A. C., of whom much had been expected, but, with John Y. Parke as partner, carried off the double scull event. Summary:

Junior single sculls, for the Stephen's Medal—First heat: William Muicare, Dauntless Boat Club, first, in 7m. 34s.; C. P. Lawrence, Vesper Boat Club, second. Second heat: J. M. Davis, Manhattan Athletic Club, first, in 7m. 45s.; P. L. Howard, New York Athletic Club, second. Final heat: Mulcare first, in 7m. 34½s.; Howard second, by two lengths; Lawrence third.

Double sculls, for the Ladies' Plate—John Y. Parke and Edwin Hedley (stroke), Vesper Boat Club, first, in 6m. 47s.; J. E. Nagle and James Pilkington (stroke), Manhattan Athletic Club, second, by a foot, after a bruising race, the Philadelphians getting the race by a brilliant spurt at the finish; Joseph Donoghue and James Donoghue (stroke), third, half a length behind.

Junior four oared shells, for the Mahr Medals—First heat: Dauntless Boat Club, C. S. Busse (bow), H. H. Morrell, J. V. Fottergill, H. H. Walrene (stroke), first, in 7m. 28s.; Union Boat Club steered over upon the flat, and did not finish the course. Second heat: Nonpareil Boat Club, H. W. Easy (bow), S. Hammond, J. Murphy, W. Humman (stroke), first, in 7m. 2½s.; Union Boat Club second crew second. Final heat: Nonpareil Boat Club defeated the Dauntless crew by twenty lengths, the latter four doing some of the worst steering ever seen on the river. Time, 7m. 32s.

Junior eight oared shells, for special medals—First heat: New York Athletic Club, H. B. Turner Jr. (bow), A. R. Pope, W. P. Wyland, G. D. Marvin, C. Schumacher Jr., F. W. Douglass, W. J. Little, E. J. Keene (stroke); Charle Turner (coxwain), first, in 6m. 23s.; Bohemian Boat Club, second, by a length and a half. Second heat: Wyanoke Boat Club, Frank Schad (bow), L. C. Kragel, John Rogge, Robert Maher, John Maguire, George Hanlan, Henry Renning, Joseph Maher (stroke), William Graham (coxwain), first, in 6m. 16s.; Columbia College Freshmen second, by less than half a length. The winners led all the way, but the collegians made a good race. Final heat: Columbia College Freshmen, W. F. Potts (bow), C. Freeman, M. Spaulding, F. M. Cutler, E. L. Dougherty, F. R. Shepard, E. B. Sturges, P. V. Richards (stroke), E. C. Parish (coxwain), first, in 6m. 25½s.; Bohemian B. C. second, by half a length; New York Athletic Club third, a length away.

Senior single sculls, Diamond Sculls—Edwin Hedley, Vesper Boat Club, Philadelphia, first, in 6m. 56s.; Fred Hawkins, Manhattan Athletic Club, second by a foot and a half; D. W. Howard, New York Athletic Club, third; Olin J. Stephens, New York Athletic Club, fourth. Hedley got the best of the start, and held the lead closely followed by Hawkins, till near the half distance when he had to lose a few strokes to avoid an obstacle, which enabled Hawkins to get a quarter length in front. The latter held the pride of place till within a hundred yards of the finish, when Hedley put on a magnificent spurt, which carried him to the fore on the post, the finish being very exciting.

Senior four oared shells, for the Challenge Plate—Atalanta Boat Club, J. H. Charmbury (bow), Fred Freeman, J. Weldon, M. T. Quigley (stroke), first, finishing alone and no time being taken. Friendship Boat Club broke their rudder before the start, and went off without it, but their boat was unmanageable, and they did not finish the course.

Senior eight oared shells, for the Harlem Cup—New York Athletic Club, W. B. Pinckney (bow), J. R.

No Replies by Mail or Telegraph.

ADDRESSES OR WHEREABOUTS NOT GIVEN. ALL IN QUEST OF SUCH SHOULD WRITE TO THOSE WHOM THEY SEEK, IN CARE OF THE CLIPPER POST OFFICE. ALL LETTERS WILL BE ADVERTISED ONE WEEK GRATIS. IF THE ROUTE OF ANY THEATRICAL COMPANY IS SOUGHT, REFER TO OUR LIST OF ROUTES ON ANOTHER PAGE. WE CANNOT SEND ROUTES BY MAIL OR TELEGRAPH

Theatrical.

W. S. M., Philadelphia.—It was first acted on any stage Dec. 30, 1887, at Troy, N. Y.

Y. B. F.—1. See Turf answers. 2. It is certainly not a harmful exercise, and a practised dancer would be more valuable on that account. 3. From Aug. 15 to about June 1, as nearly as can be fixed by existing customs. There are no exact limits, however. 4. See Ring answers.

F. S., Brooklyn.—1. Walter Montgomery played Meg Merrilies in two acts of "Guy Mannering," in imitation of Charlotte Cushman, at the Gaiety Theatre, London, Eng., Aug. 15 and 17, 1871. 2. We do not know where you can obtain that recitation.

Miss M. V., Belleville.—That report was not confirmed nor has it since been confirmed. At last accounts, the company were in the interior. Watch our circus news columns from week to week.

H. A. E., Allentown.—1. The tour of that company has closed for the season. 2 and 3. Write to her manager, Daniel Frohman.

F. S. N., New London.—See the notice at the head of this column.

ANXIOUS A B C.—1. The letters were sent for. 2. See the notice at the head of this column.

CONSTANT READER, Massillon.—1. A suit such as you suggest would be appropriate and picturesque. 2. They are not manufactured in this country. You had better consult somebody in that business.

J. H. B., Dubuque.—There are, as nearly as we can recall at this moment, about half a dozen female performers in that line. All are in England or Europe, however, at this time. The one last in this country was with Reilly & Wood's Co. about three seasons ago.

M. B., Paducah.—No such circus has traveled within the past fifteen years, so far as our records show.

S. R. F., Denver.—1. They do not play any musical instrument. It is a singing sketch. Advertise your want in THE CLIPPER.

C. E. D., Wilkesbarre.—State, as briefly and as clearly as you can, just what you want to do, your lowest salary, your experience, reference, etc. Then rely on Providence for the rest.

H. R.—No minstrel company under his direct management, or sanctioned by him, has visited this country since the year mentioned. But in 1884, the Moore & Holmes British Burlesque Co. visited this country, and he was a reputed financial backer.

E. M., Ohio.—1. There is a fair chance for such a lecturer, if he is really clever and quick. 2. From $25 a week upwards. 3. We do not care to advise you.

MRS. I. H.—She has not played at that theatre or any other in that part of the city within two years.

I. L., La Fayette.—We should say that your "double-voice" accomplishment might be turned to valuable account, though hardly in legitimate opera. Consult experienced managers, who will advise you how to proceed.

W. B. P., Lewiston.—That is a long disputed question. It seems to variously affect different persons.

E. F., Wichita Falls.—We do not assist in procuring employment for professionals or amateurs. Advertise your want in THE CLIPPER, and pursue the usual course in such cases. If you are a novice, we cannot encourage you.

W. E. B., Ellis.—Write to any of the music publishers who advertise in THE CLIPPER.

"MERCEDES," New Orleans.—1. You might secure such an engagement. 2. From $15 to $40 a week. 3. We never saw one. 4. You had better advertise yourself in THE CLIPPER.

W. P., Fairbury.—See the notice at the head of this column.

C. D., New Orleans.—Write to the Probate Office, this city.

W. A. B., St. Louis.—1. Hoyt & Thomas are the managers of the Madison Square Theatre, this city. 2. See the notice at the head of this column.

MRS. M. B., Steubenville.—See the notice at the head of this column.

B. D., St. Paul.—See the notice at the head of this column. If you deem it important enough, you should advertise in THE CLIPPER for information as to her whereabouts.

E. L. W., Lincoln.—1. From $50 to $60 a week, according to his cleverness, reputation, etc. 2. They go in various directions, there being no regular route from there.

C. S. & SONS.—1. He is manager of the Howard Athenæum Specialty Co. 2. See the notice at the head of this column.

Cards.

J. H. W., Providence.—A wins. There was no run or account of the jack intervening, the cards having been played as follow: 7, jack, 6 and 5.

C. T., Buffalo.—The combinations of five cards in cribbage are numerous, counting from one point to twenty-nine. No possible combination of five cards in hand or crib can however make nineteen, twenty-five, twenty-six or twenty-seven.

H. MCK., Newark.—He could turn down the deck head.

F. W. K., San Marcial.—The lady who was beaten in the play off is entitled to the second prize. The lady with ten points to her credit was third highest.

SANDERS, Washington.—A's card was boarded. His error was due solely to his own carelessness.

I. B., Fair Haven.—He can call out at any time. He runs all risks, not his opponent.

J. C. MCK., Manchester.—D was right. A must pay for the ace.

J. P., Cleveland.—The strict rule is that all should discard before anyone is served, but the dealer is often allowed to hang fire through a mistaken idea that it quickens play.

IN DOUBT, Columbus.—A wins on his turned jack.

Baseball, Cricket, Etc.

J. A. W., Columbus.—The longest game on record in regard to the number of innings played was that between the Fargo and Grand Forks teams July 18, 1891, at Devil's Lake, N. D. Twenty-five innings were then played without a run being scored by either team. The Fargo team made four errors, and the Grand Forks team seven errors.

C. E. B., Philadelphia.—We do not publish any.

C. O. G., Boston.—The bet is a draw, being decided by the second game, which was the regular scheduled one.

T. E. C., Lynchburg.—Two umpires are allowed to umpire the same championship game by the rules of the National League and American Association and other professional associations. Two umpires have so officiated several times this season.

W. V. J.—The last address we had of him was at 1,247 Broadway, this city.

W. T. A., Ithaca.—B wins the bet.

J. C., Akron.—He was born about forty one years ago at Marshalltown, Ia.

C. T., Columbus.—H. McCormick pitched and M. Dorgan caught for the Stars of Syracuse in 1876.

Athletic.

J. S. C., Yonkers.—In the first series of races run by L. E. Myers and W. G. George in this country, in 1882, Myers won at 880yds. and George at one mile, the races taking place at the old Polo Grounds. Myers forfeited the 1,320yds. event owing to illness, and George took the medal contended for. They afterwards ran a match race at the latter distance, on Thanksgiving Day, which George won by five yards. Their second series of races, at 1,000yds., 1,320yds. and one mile, came off at Madison Square Garden in May, 1886, all three being won by Myers.

J. R., Montreal.—1. There is no record of an English professional running one hundred yards in ten seconds. In the Sheffield handicaps, where the best runners meet each year, the distances run are further than one hundred yards. There have been at least several professionals in England who have been able to run the distance in even time, if not better. 2. A "flying start" is obtained when the men are in motion when the signal is given to go. In a standing start the runners do not leave the scratch till the pistol is fired. 3. Do not remember the exact date.

J. C. A., Montreal.—Send twenty-five cents to this office for THE CLIPPER ANNUAL for 1892, which contains all the records you want.

Ring.

S. A., Peabody.—1. In their fight in France Charley Mitchell threw Sullivan in the seventh round and gained first blood in the eighth. 2. No; there were no stakes up for the glove contest referred to. Each took half of the gate receipts, after expenses.

J. M. G., Telluride.—The fight between Paddy Slavin and Peter Jackson, at London, Eng., May 30 next, is limited to twenty rounds, and will be governed by the Queensberry rules.

S. K.—The book "Fistiana," formerly published by Bell's Life in London, has been out of print since 1872.

4. B. F.—John L. Sullivan and James Corbett are matched to fight before the Olympic Club, of New Orleans, in September next for a stake of $10,000 a side and a purse of $25,000, making $45,000 in all.

J. G. B.—Jack Ashton defeated Joe Lannon in nineteen rounds, with skin gloves, at Burrillville, R. I., March 30, 1889.

D. O. W., Woodbury.—1. The fight between John C. Heenan and Tom Sayers took place at Farnborough, Eng., April 17, 1860. 2. Heenan died at Green River Station, Wy. Ter., Oct. 25, 1873.

M. S.—The glove fight between Jake Kilrain and Geo. Godfrey, at San Francisco Cal., March 13, 1891, was won by Kilrain, 44 rounds being contested in 2h. 56m.

Turf.

W. S. T., St. Paul.—In 1836, at Natchez, Miss., Walker Thurston matched his horse Rodolph against Hon. J. F. Claybourne's mare Susan Yandell, for 1,500 bales of cotton a side, which was equal in value to $250,000. Susan had a walk over for the money, as the horse was taken sick shortly before the date set for the contest.

S. A. L., Toronto.—Common was not a starter for the Kempton Park Great Jubilee Stakes last year.

W. T. C., Oneonta.—Maud S. is alive and well. The mare is the property of Robert Bonner, and is quartered at his stable in this city.

V. D. F., Washington.—The fastest record time made by a trotter for one mile, single harness, is 2:08¾, by Sunol, at Stockton, Cal. The mare was driven by Charles Marvin. Maud S.'s best time is 2:08¾.

G. H. C., King's Park.—None for sale at this office. You can order the books through the International News Company, this city.

G. B. F.—1. The fastest time in which a mile and a half has been run by a horse is 2:33, by Firenzi, at Sheepshead Bay, June 26, 1890. 2 and 3. See amusement answers. 4. See Ring answers.

Billiards, Pool, Etc.

CONSTANT READER, Omaha.—A must make four balls upon his second play. B was correct in insisting that, after A had pocketed his eighth ball, he must also pocket three additional balls in order to win at his handicap of four balls or no count.

C. M. W., Far Rockaway.—A was right.

Dice, Dominoes, Etc.

T. H. M., Savannah.—B loses his bet of four to one. It could not be a tie.

Miscellaneous.

VERY ANXIOUS, Brooklyn.—The letter was called for on May 17.

The London tourney is finished with Mr. Jordan winning first prize, £25, a gold medal and the championship of England. The games, with notes and diagrams will be published by James Hill. The summary is as follows: First round—Jordan, 1; Woodhouse, 0; drawn 7. Dunne, 1; Bailey, 0; drawn, 5. Lewis, 4; Bishop, 0; drawn, 0. Richmond, 3; Freeman, 0; drawn, 1. Friday night, after a supper given to the players and the committee, the British Draught Association was organized. The evening concluded with songs, recitations and speeches..... J. C. Brown, of Hawick, is becoming quite noted as a blindfold player. He recently played twelve games, winning 8, losing 1, and 3 drawn. In his score with the Berwick players he won 212 lost 3, and drew 15..... Searight has devoted his talents specially to ready and accurate analysis of each position as the game progresses, and is justly styled the "Modern of the Moderns." W. Campbell is continuously playing blindfold checkers, and in a large majority of the games he is successful..... Ex-Champion Martins recently closed a five days' engagement with the Fraserburg Chess and Draught Club. Of eighty-three games played he won 70 and 13 were drawn. With regret we learn that the draught column in The Boston Globe is discontinued. We sincerely hope that Bro. Durgin will again conduct a column soon.

CHESS.

Laskeriana.

As everything relating to the personality of the unmistakably rising young master, Emanual Lasker, has now a fresh and peculiar interest, we gladly lay before our readers a panegyric by one who has closely observed his subject, R. J. Buckley, chess editor Birmingham (Eng.) Mercury. True, it is pretty highly wrought in its burst of admiration; but Mr. B is, evidently, fully persuaded of the soundness of his views. We are indebted to The Times-Democrat for the citation:

"The British masters know not what to do with Lasker, who at all points of the game is armed as with triple steel. They have tried close games, open games, waiting games; ancient style, modern style, irregular openings, hackneyed openings—in vain. They have tried to out manœuvre him with Dædalian complications; to best him in the opening, the middle game and the end. Whatever style of chess he is actually playing you are apt to think his strongest point. He is as ingenious as Bird, as imaginative as Blackburne, as subtle as Gunsberg, as original as Steinitz, as brilliant as Tchigorin, as solid and tenacious as Mason, as safe as Tarrasch, as scientific as half a dozen ordinary masters rolled into one.

"In future he must be classed with Steinitz, Blackburne, Tchigorin, Gunsberg and Weiss. * * * While playing with Gunsberg his eye wandered to a difficult end game which Mason was plaing to win against Bird. Mason did win, and in a way which pleased the gallery. But Lasker demonstrated the position a dead draw, having analyzed it while playing his own game with Gunsberg, who played for six hours, making a desperate effort to win.

"The only question as to Lasker's staying powers relates to physique. He is of slight and delicate appearance, and he may not last. Chess matches and tourneys are a severe test of vitality. Lasker is only twenty-three, and without spectacles and when not playing, has a very boyish look; but when intent on the game he looks sixty at least. He is modest and polite, quiet and gentlemanly. He has the aquiline nose and strong military chin of the ancient race to which he belongs—the race of Horwitz, Harrwitz, Steinitz, Zukertort, and many another chess celebrity. Let him keep in good going order, let him remain sound in mind and limb, and we will back him to win the championship of the world."

As an interesting corollary to the above vivid pen picture, we have picked out a couple of bits from The Tribune's London dispatches, showing what manner of man in actual conflict over the board future antagonists will be called upon to face. Gunsberg had drawn one game, and then dabbled in the "French." The account goes on: "Gunsberg, as it appeared to the onlookers, was waiting anxiously for his opponent to assume aggressive tactics, but he had to wait in vain. True to the German school, which teaches 'risk nothing, develop your pieces and always keep a draw in hand,' Lasker played a socalled dull game until his opponent lost his patience. After studying for a long time, Gunsberg adopted a variation which would have yielded good results if his opponent had made the least hitch in reply to his plan. There was a real sensation in the club when the youth coolly and deliberately repelled the attack, by which he gained a couple of pawns. Having a won game in hand, he again retired, placed his pieces in another battle order, brought about exchanges of pieces, and won in spite of his opponent's efforts to escape with a draw."

The second instance in point was the final game with Mason. If Lasker drew, he won first prize; to lose involved a play off match with Blackburne. The dispatch says: "For the first time in this tourney Lasker displayed signs of nervous excitement. He was uneasy and restless while studying over his moves, and impatiently walked up and down when it was Mason's turn. In the policy of 'masterly inactivity,' Mason was the Prussian's superior. Lasker's game grew worse and worse by degrees, so that little doubt was expressed as to his final defeat. To the surprise of all, the moment his game grew inferior Lasker lost his restlessness. When his defeat seemed a foregone conclusion he very calmly pondered over the situation as one would over a mathematical problem, as if the game had nothing to do with his fame or his future. By a series of moves, every one of which denoted the master, he extricated himself from his difficult position and finally secured a slight advantage. Mason prolonged the contest to the forty-third move, when he consented to a draw."

(a) [No other American player makes so frequent and such skillful use of the "Fianchetto" in its various applications as does Mr. Lipschutz. By it he promptly seizes the long diagonal, whence

(*) The Sun points out that White now threatens to sacrifice Q, and mate in four; but Black says—No, thanks!

(†) [The Herald does not locate its (g), presumably here.] A powerful move, which ought to win. Black's is the only reply to prevent immediate disaster.

(‡) [The scribes on the ground now disagree remarkably; which makes us regret not having the remaining annotations of Bro. Steinitz.] The sacrifice of the exchange is quite sound, only White did not follow it up properly.—Herald.

(f) A serious mistake! White should 33. B × R P!, and ought to win. Black adroitly wins a P back, effects an ex. of Q's, and White's attack collapses.

(g) Black has now completely turned the tables, and practically has a won game.

(??) A fearful mistake! K R to B 2, followed by B home, thence to Q 2, was his best defence. This at once costs the exchange, and Black's defence soon breaks down.

LATEST.—The Lipschutz-Showalter match is a subject so decidedly passe as not to be worth a separate paragraph. Score: Mr. S., 1; drawn, 7; Mr. L., 6. Seven games to win..... Great news for next October. It is the same as certain that He r Lasker will pay this city a month's visit under the inspiration and patronage of our Manhattan C. C..... The rumors that Herr Tchigorin has challenged Mr. Steinitz to another cable match seem to be verified.....The scores of those still in the Brooklyn tourney have now come to a pass that leaves the first prize a sure thing to Bro. Pollock, with his 15 to 3. One important element in this result was Kemeny's recent victory over Hodges.....A match, Albany vs. Baltimore, is under way.

From Chicago to New York.

The relay race on bicycles from the Windy City to the metropolis, instituted as a test of the availability of the wheel as a means of courier service, commenced on Wednesday, May 18, at noon, when the first pair of riders, Lumsden and Bode, of Chicago, started off with a message entrusted to them by General Miles, which was to be delivered to Gen. O. O. Howard, commanding the Department of the East. The start was made from the Pullman Building, General Miles and a big crowd witnessing the start. At 12.41 o'clock Lumsden wheeled past the Illinois Central track at Grand Crossing. As he went by that point at full speed H. A. Githens, the first relay man, wheeled up abreast of Lumsden, and from him received the despatch and sped on toward Kensington, the next relay station. Not a fraction of a second was lost. Githens reached Kensington at 1.08 o'clock, just twenty-nine minutes from the time he received the despatch. Vaulting from the wheel and taking the leathern pouch from his neck, he ran a few feet to where R. Hoagland, the next relay man, stood, threw the message over Hoagland's neck, and it was again on its way toward New York. The progress of the riders engaged in the trial is shown by the following despatches from various points en route:

LA PORTE, Ind., May 18.—Relay riders arrived and left La Porte at 6.25 P. M., two minutes ahead of schedule time.

NEW CARLISLE, Ind., May 18.—Davis, the bicyclist, came in at 7.54 P. M. He broke his chain three and a half miles west of New Carlisle, and carried his machine into town. Ballard arrived ten minutes later. Merrick and Nicollett left here at 7.54 P. M.

TOLEDO, O., May 19.—Howard Tuttle reached Bryan, O., at ten minutes past eleven A. M., five hours late and completely exhausted. He traveled through mud from six inches to a foot deep and broke one pedal of his wheel three miles west of Bryan, having to come in on foot. His companion was left exhausted at Butler, Ind. Boll Meyer, who was the rel

ARRANGEMENTS for the annual twenty-five mile road race over the Irvington-Milburn course, in New Jersey, have been completed, and all that is required to make it a memorable event, superior to all those of preceding years, is good weather and good going. The entries are more numerous than usual, and among the starters will be found all the best roadists in the East, including George W. Coffin, the winner of the one hundred mile race under the auspices of the Business Men's Cycling League, from Philadelphia to Newark, N. J., who will wear the colors of the Orange Wheelmen.

A. A. ZIMMERMAN, of the New Jersey Athletic Club, was again defeated on Saturday afternoon, May 21, at the race meet of the London County Cycling and Athletic Club, at Herne Hill, London, Eng. He started in the one mile safety scratch race for which he was made the favorite on the strength of his record breaking quarter mile performance a few days previously, but was beaten after a struggle in his trial heat by Edwards. The race itself was won by Scofield, an almost unknown man.

E. DANGERFIELD, W. W. Arnott and F. Lowe are credited with having, recently, in England, ridden a tripiet a mile in 2m. 10s. It is said to have been the last mile of a ten mile spin, and of course was from a flying start. E. B. Turner, the well known 'cycling enthusiast, took the time. Flying or standing start, the performance, if true, was a remarkable one, especially after the riders had already been going for nine miles.

ZIMMY ALL RIGHT - From the following cablegram, dated May 19, it would appear that A. A. Zimmerman has at last got on edge, and we may now expect to hear that he has commenced to ride winning races against his foreign rivals, who have heretofore had fun with the Jerseyman: "On the Herne Hill grounds today, A. A. Zimmerman, of the New York Athletic Club, lowered the English quarter mile 'cycling record, making the distance in 32⅘s."

G. WALLAR, of the Acme Athletic Club, of California, has informed the racing board of the L. A. W., that on June 10 he will attempt to lower the 24 hour track record. He will start at 6 P. M. on his ride on the Alameda Bicycle Club track.

THE PROGRAMME for the meet of the Kings County Wheelmen at Manhattan Field, this city, on June 25, is as follows: One mile, safety, novice; one mile, safety, championship of America; two miles, safety, open; half a mile, safety, scratch; one mile ordinary, open.

THE PRESS 'CYCLING CLUB, of this city, has been organized, with the following officers: President, James E. Sullivan; vice president, J. H. Nelden; treasurer, Walter J. Masterson; secretary, Ernest R. Franks; captain, William Norr.

A. A. ZIMMERMAN finished within four yards of F. Bradbury in a third of a mile race at the Bristol, Eng., sports last week. At the Herne Hill track on May 19 he won a half mile race in 1m. 7⅘s. On the same day A. Good rode a quarter mile from a flying start in 30⅗s.

THE Young Men's Christian Association Wheelmen, a Cincinnati, O., organization, is officered as follows: President, William Green; secretary, L. S McCourd.

DIAMOND FIELD GOSSIP.

Latest Doings and Sayings of the Baseball Fraternity.

A recent dispatch from Baltimore says: "While the decision of the directors of the National League and the American Association in awarding to the New York Club the protested game of April 20 at Union Park, Baltimore, between the Baltimore and New York Clubs is final, it is the general sentiment in Baltimore that New York took advantage of a very doubtful technicality after it had fairly lost the game to the Baltimores as far as played. President Vonderhorst made the protest. It will be remembered that the Baltimores were scheduled to play at Boston April 21, and in order to catch the last train to reach that city in time for the game it was necessary to stop playing at Union Park at 5 o'clock, April 20. The National League and American Association constitution provides for such emergencies under Section 52. Manager Powers and Captain Ewing claim that Baltimore did not carry out the rule by notifying them of their intentions. Vice President Waltz says he notified Manager Powers, and the New York players were on the grounds and began the game at 3.30 o'clock, a half hour earlier than the usual time. At 5 o'clock, when the Baltimores were obliged to stop to catch their train and had made more runs than New York, Captain Ewing insisted upon finishing the game, and in accordance with his demands, as the Baltimores refused to continue, Umpire Mahoney declared the game forfeited to New York. Captain Ewing declared that as Van Haltren was the manager it was Van Haltren's place to notify him. The National League and American Association directors are: N. E. Young, president and secretary; James A. Hart, of Chicago; A. H. Soden, of Boston; Chris. Von der Ahe, of St. Louis; J. T. Brush, of Cincinnati; F. S. Elliott, of Washington, and H. R. Vonderhorst, of Baltimore. Mr. Vonderhorst did not vote on the question."

The Dartmouth College team defeated Amherst College team May 18, at Amherst, Mass., by a score of 4 to 2. Only four safe hits were made by each team. The Darthmouths' base running was very good, especially in the fourth inning, when four men stole second. These college teams met again May 19, when the Dartmouth nine scored another victory, the final figures being 6 to 1. O'Connor struck out fourteen of the Amherst team, holding them down to five scattering safe hits. Sullivan pitched for Amherst and was batted in only two innings. This gives Dartmouth a record of two victories and two defeats in the championship series of the American College Association. The Williams College team has two games won and none lost, and Amherst has lost both games played so far. The postponed game between Williams and Amherst will be played June 8, at Amherst.

W. C. Temple, a director of the Pittsburg Club, of the National League and American Association, in a recent interview, said: "I am sorry that the rumor has been circulated that we, by signing Burns, intend to release Manager Buckenberger. Please state for me that Buckenberger will not be released and that he will not go except I go. He will be our manager, and we will look to him as in the past. It is not our policy to cast men adrift so abruptly. Burns will be captain and have charge of the players on the field and this will give Manager Buckenberger more time to look after other matters. In short, we will have the two men somewhat similar to the engagement of Comiskey and Bancroft by the Cincinnati Club. But let it be understood plainly, that Manager Buckenberger will remain with us."

James A. Hart, president of the Chicago Club, is quoted as saying: "I have never been a believer in Hot Springs as a training resort, and if I have my way the club will spend only a short time there next year. I think a few days there would benefit a club, particularly the pitchers, but a prolonged stay tends to weaken the players. I think next year that if the club went from Chicago to the Hot Springs for a short stay, then started for New Mexico, did the bulk of its work there, and worked back by way of San Francisco and Denver, it would be in perfect condition at the beginning of the championship season."

President Williams, at the direction of the Western League, has removed A. M. Thompson as manager of the St. Paul Club, and Alvord will have charge of the team until further arrangements are made. No word was received from Denver by President Williams in relation to the proposition made by the league, and it is probable the St. Paul Club will be transferred to Fort Wayne. Of the seven clubs in the league, Columbus, Indianapolis, Toledo, and Minneapolis are said to favor the transfer to Fort Wayne.

The Spokane and Tacoma teams of the Pacific Northwest League had an exciting eleven inning contest May 12 at Spokane. The visitors started off with a long lead, which was gradually diminished until the eighth inning, when the score stood a tie. The home team batted out the winning run in the eleventh. Polhemus and Lauer led their respective teams in batting, the former's five hits including a triple and a double, and the latter's three hits had a home run and a double. The visitors outfielded the winners and got the greatest number of hits, but failed to bunch them. The Spokane team tied the Seattle Club for first place by this victory.

A dispatch from New Haven, Ct., says: "The greatest disappointment prevails in this city, owing to the edict of the faculty of Yale College, in consequence of the Freshmen celebration over the Harvard victory, in declaring that it will not allow any further playing on the part of the Freshman team this year, and all engagements may be considered canceled. Petitions are being circulated among the class, in both scientific and academic divisions, requesting the faculty to repeal their decision.

Two games were played May 18, for the championship of the Junior Interscholastic League, of this city. Columbia Grammar School defeated Chapin School by a score of 18 to 16. The Barnard and Dwight School teams had a little difficulty when they came together, and Dwight refused to play. Therefore, the umpire declared the game forfeited to Barnard School by a 9 to 0 score. The Barnard School team leads in the race for the pennant.

The Bensonhurst Athletic Club nine defeated the Staten Island Cricket Club's team May 18, at Staten Island, by a score of 9 to 1. Burdock, who captained the Bensonhurst team, and the other veteran professional, Tom Esterbrook, made five of the ten safe hits credited to their team. Worth was batted safely only five times by the losers.

Hubbert Collins, whose picture is above given, died of typhoid fever, May 21, at his home in Brooklyn. He was a clever, general player of the Brooklyn Club, of the National League and American Association. He accompanied the Brooklyn team on their recent Western trip, and contracted the disease from which he died in the miserably cold and rainy weather which the team experienced while away. Nearly every player on the team contracted some ailment, but Collins, whose system had received a severe shock in a collision between himself and Burns, in a game between the Brooklyn and New York teams played July 20, 1891, at Brooklyn, was not able to stand the strain. He fought long and gamely against the insidious advances of the dread disease, and played his last game May 14, at Boston. Collins was born April 15, 1864, in Louisville, and first played with amateur teams of that city. His professional career commenced in 1885, when he was engaged by the Columbus (Ga.) Club, of the Southern League. He filled the position of second base for the Columbus team, and did so in a very creditable manner. At the close of the season of 1885, he received several flattering offers from clubs of the National League and American Association, all of which, however, he declined. He commenced the season of 1886 with the Savannah Club, of the Southern League, and took part in seventy-eight of its championship games, fifty-six of which were at second base, and twenty-two in right field. He made such a reputation as a batter, fielder and base runner that the Louisville Club, in September, 1886, made a very liberal offer for his release, and it was accepted, and he finished that season as left fielder for the American Association team from his native city. He took part in twenty-seven championship games in 1886, with the Louisvilles, and was well up among the leaders in the batting, while he ranked fourth as a left fielder in the official fielding average. He remained with the Louisvilles throughout the season of 1887, when he ranked second of the left fielders of the American Association, and, during a greater part of the season of 1888, was also with the same team. In the latter part of the season of 1888 his release was purchased by the Brooklyn Club. His work as an outfielder with the Louisville Club had given him a national reputation. He played left field at first for Brooklyn, but was tried at second base a few weeks later, relieving Burdock at that position. He made a pronounced success as an infielder, and was kept at second base until he was so badly injured last Summer. He played a few games in left field in the Fall and resumed his position there this Spring, doing such brilliant work that he was highly praised. Collins made a great reputation for himself as a brilliant, reliable and steady player. He was a free, hard hitter, a fine fielder and a very daring base runner, and his fine all 'round work went far toward helping the Brooklyns to win the championship in 1889, of the American Association, and, in 1890, of the National League. In speaking of his death, President Charles H. Byrne, of the Brooklyn Club, said: "In Collins we mourn the loss of one of our most faithful men and one of the sincerest of friends. In our five years of close relationship I cannot recall an unpleasant incident. Always eager to serve his club's interests, he was entirely free from the little breaches of discipline which nearly all players are subject to. He was one of the few men who never gave the club a particle of trouble. Whatever anxiety one may have had on his account was not due to any fault of his, but to his zeal in our behalf. When I look back to that awful accident last Summer, when he and Burns collided in right field, I feel again the terrible sensation that caused my blood to stand still at the time. Poor Hub! In his eagerness to defeat the New Yorks he brought about a personal injury from which he was months in recovering. He was popular alike with his fellow players and the many acquaintances he made in private life. Being of a whole souled, generous disposition, he made no enemies, and everybody liked him. It will be hard to fill his place on the team, impossible to fill the void he has left in our hearts."

The New Jersey Athletic Club nine had the Elizabeth team for opponents May 18, at Bergen Point, N. J., the former then winning by a score of 14 to 3. The winners made thirteen of their runs in three innings, while the losers scored in only one inning.

The Wesleyan College team beat the St. John's College team, of this city, May 19, at Middletown, Ct., by a score of 9 to 8.

President Lincoln, of the Lowell Club, of the New England League, has resigned on account of the demands made upon him by his business.

The Holy Cross College nine defeated the Williams College team May 18, at Williamstown, Mass., by a score of 14 to 1.

The Manhattan Athletic team defeated the Jaspers, of Manhattan College, May 18, at Manhattan Field, this city, by a score of 19 to 3. Wilson struck out thirteen of the Jaspers, and was batted safely only six times.

The Yale College and the Staten Island Athletic Club teams played May 18, at New Haven, the latter then winning by a score of 13 to 8. Both teams batted hard, but Yale lost by poor fielding. Davis, a Freshman, pitched for the college nine, and Van Zandt for the visitors. Both pitchers were batted hard and often, fourteen safe hits being scored by each team.

The veteran, McQuery, is now playing first base for the Evansville Club. In a recent game with the Peoria team he made two home runs, driving in five of the seven runs credited to the Evansville team.

The Louisville Club has given "Pete" Browning, the veteran outfielder, a ten days' notice of his release.

Harry Wright, the veteran manager of the Philadelphia team, is not at all discouraged over the club's position in the race. He recently said: "The stuff is there, and it is bound to make itself manifest. Just let the croakers suspend judgment until we get through this long stand at home."

The Rochester Club, after signing John Irwin, did not even give him a trial before it released him. He played with the Binghamtons May 12 and accepted all of seven chances.

The Harvard College team defeated the Milfords May 19, at Cambridge, Mass., by a score of 4 to 0. Highlands pitched the first five innings, and was caught by Cobb for the first time, he accepting all of nineteen chances in the game. For the last four innings Wiggin was put into the box. The Milfords made only two scattering singles, while the Harvards hit eleven times safely.

It required eleven innings to decide the game between the Woonsocket and Lowell teams of the New England League, May 19, at Woonsocket, the former then winning by a score of 6 to 5. The Lowells led by 5 to 0 at the end of the fifth inning. Ladd and O'Brien made six of the nine hits credited to the Woonsockets.

Manager Bancroft, of the Cincinnati Club, is quoted as saying: "It would not surprise him if a meeting of the National League and American Association was not called before the second championship season began for the purpose of equalizing the playing strength of the teams. Boston was outrageously strong and should not be so at the cost of the other clubs."

The Cornell College nine defeated the Lehigh University team May 20, at Ithaca, N. Y., by a score of 9 to 1. Priest retired the Lehigh team with only four scattering singles, while he himself made three safe hits.

George Hemming, who pitched last year for the Brooklyn Club, of the National League, has received an offer from the Eastern League. Hemming practices daily at Eastern Park, Brooklyn, and is in excellent condition.

The Minneapolis and Toledo teams, of the Western League, played an exciting eleven inning game May 17, at Toledo, the former then winning by 3 to 2. The home team made all of their runs in the ninth inning, when they tied the score. An error by Ely at short stop and two safe hits helped the Minneapolis team to the winning run after two men were out in the last half of the eleventh inning.

The Western League held a special meeting May 16, at Chicago. President James A. Williams presided. All the clubs were represented as follow: O. M. Evans, Columbus; W. F. C. Golt, Indianapolis; J. W. Speas, Kansas City; Ralph Stout, Omaha; C. H. Morton, Minneapolis; J. C. Iverson, Milwaukee, and J. W. Gunnell, Toledo. President Williams reported St. Paul out of the league, a fact which partly explained the necessity for the meeting. The St. Paul Club has been run entirely by the Western League, the latter being promised that a stock company would be formed to take the club off its hands. The stock company, however, has failed to materialize, and circumstances are such as to make the dropping of St. Paul a necessity, and this was decided upon. The cities which applied for the vacant place are: Denver, Grand Rapids and Fort Wayne. Terre Haute is a possibility.

The Pittsburg Club mailed a contract to Thomas Burns, of the Chicago Club, which he received on May 19, but refused to sign. Burns said: "They could fire me in a month if I signed such a contract. My lawyer will draw up an ironclad contract, running absolutely for three years. There will be no release clause in it. I will send it to the Pittsburg Club for approval, and if the officials telegraph me that the contract meets their approval, and that they have signed it, I will take charge of the team. Of course it will be impossible for me to play for some weeks yet, but as soon as I am able I will cover third base. My position will be the same as Anson's. Buckenberger will simply look after the financial and business end, and I will have absolute control of the team." Burns, however, signed May 21, when he took charge of the Pittsburg team at Chicago.

A dispatch from St. Louis, dated May 20, says: "There was another shakeup in the St. Louis Club today. Stricker was relieved of the captaincy and Crooks appointed to that position. Crooks is to be played regularly at second and Stricker will be held as a general utility man. Pinkney has fully recovered from his recent illness and will cover third. Von der Ahe received an official bulletin from President Young tonight to the effect that Pitcher Getzein, of last season's Boston Club, of the National League, had been assigned to St. Louis. When Getzein joins the team the St. Louis will not be so weak in the box as they have proved themselves to be thus far this season. Getzein will probably join the St. Louis May 26 at Brooklyn."

The Buffalos beat the Athletics, of the Eastern League, May 29 at Buffalo by a score of 5 to 3 in ten innings. It was the first home victory and the second game won by the Buffalo team out of fifteen championship games played thus far. Rowe, the veteran short stop, made three of the five runs scored by the Buffalo team in this game and also got three safe hits, as did Daley and Pettee. Lyons led in batting and fielding for the Athletics.

It is said that Stovey, of the Boston Club, will shortly be signed by the New York Club.

In the eighth inning of the Toledo-Columbus game, played May 22, at Toledo, with the score tied, 5 to 5, a squad of policemen placed the managers and players of both teams under arrest for violating the Sunday law. They were marched to the police station, and after putting up $600 were released.

The Texas League held a special meeting May 19, at Houston, Tex. All the clubs were represented, as follow: Galveston by McLemore, Houston by McCloskey, Forth Worth by McLemore, and Dallas by Fabian. President Packard in the chair. President Packard stated that the object of the meeting was as to whether the league should adopt the percentage or guarantee system, the signing of players and any matter pertaining to the welfare of the league. On motion of McLemore it was decided that the home club should pay the visiting club $50 for every game played, one full inning to constitute a game. On motion of McCloskey it was agreed that no club will be allowed to sign a player released by a Texas League club without permission of the releasing club. The president and secretary were appointed a committee to draft a constitution and bylaws. President Packard and Alex. Easton, of Galveston, were appointed as a committee to sign players on application of managers. If a manager is in need of a player he will ask the committee to sign such player for him, which the committee will do, provided he is a desirable man. President Packard was instructed to sign an umpire at once. In the meantime P. J. Flaherty will officiate, and is given full authority to fine players and enforce discipline on the field. The League dues were fixed at $100 for the first month, and $80 per month afterward. Players will be punished for insulting the umpire after the game for any decision made during a game. Umpires will be required to provide themselves with caps and coats, and at all times to present a neat appearance on the ball field. All the managers pledged themselves to collect and pay into the league treasury all fines reported by the umpire. When an umpire fines a player and fails to report it to the president of the league the fine will be charged against him. The umpire has no power to remit fines. All clubs reported themselves in good condition financially, and the season will be played through successfully beyond a doubt.

Frank Genins, recently released by the St. Louis Club, of the National League and American Association, has been signed by the Indianapolis Club, of the Western League.

The Cincinnati Club has signed Browning, the veteran outfielder, recently released by the Louisville Club. It is not yet decided whose place he will take in the outfield of the Cincinnati team.

Harvard made only one run up to the sixth inning.

The management of the Pittsburg Club has received a letter from President Young saying that the New York Club has filed no protest against the forfeited game of May 10.

President Day, of the New York Club, denies that he has protested or intends to protest the forfeit game May 10, at Pittsburg. He says it will not be awarded to the Pittsburg Club, or, if it does, it will be most unjust, as Umpire Macullar did not appear on the grounds until 4.20 P. M. and after the New Yorks had left the field.

Cleveland vs. Louisville.

The third game between these clubs was played May 17, at Cleveland, the home team then securing their second victory of the series. Young shut out the Louisvilles without a run, holding them down to two scattering singles, one of which was a scratch. Not one of the visiting team reached third base in the game. Errors gave the home team their first five runs, only one safe hit having been made off Jones up to the fifth inning. The Clevelands bunched four safe hits and scored two earned runs in the seventh. Sensational catches by McAleer and Browning saved several hits.

Brooklyn vs. Boston.

The third game between these clubs was played May 17 at Brooklyn, the home team then winning for the first time. The Bostons were shut out without a run, Hart holding them down to a solitary safe hit a scratch single by Lowe in the ninth inning. Hart gave three men bases on balls after one was out in the third inning, and that was the nearest the visitors came to scoring. Nichols was wild and ineffective, giving six men bases on balls, three of whom scored, and being batted safely eight times. O'Brien led in batting, his timely single bringing in two runs in the third inning. Corcoran's short stopping was the fielding feature, he accepting ten chances in that position.

Timely hitting helped the Bostons to win after an exciting uphill contest May 18. The home team took the lead in the first inning, when Brouthers batted a triple bagger bringing in two runs. Staley settled down then and prevented the Brooklyns from making more than two runs during the remainder of the game. The Bostons bunched five safe hits in the seventh and eighth innings, which earned three runs and the victory. Stein did good work in the box during the first six innings. A daring bit of base running by McCarthy at the finish materially aided the visitors in winning. Joyce interfered with a throw made by Ganzel and this lost the home team a chance to tie the score in the ninth inning.

Haddock made his first appearance with the Brooklyn team May 19, when he held the Bostons down to five safe hits, three of which were made in the eighth inning. He shut them out without a hit in the first five innings. The home team bunched their hits off Stivetts in three innings, when they scored six runs, errors, however, preventing more than two from being earned. The Brooklyns started off with the lead, and held it throughout. Wild pitching by Haddock helped the Brooklyns to two runs. Rain obliged the umpire to call the game after eight innings had been completed. A great jumping catch by Burns cut off a home run.

New York vs. Baltimore.

The Baltimores secured a second unexpected victory over the New Yorks May 17, at the Polo Grounds in this city. Welch, who reappeared with the home team, was batted freely in the first five innings, ten safe hits then giving the visitors nine runs and the lead. Crane was then substituted and pitched very effectively during the remainder of the contest. The New Yorks made a good up hill fight, and by batting Buffinton freely in the three innings finally managed to tie the score. Wild pitching by Crane and a fumble by Richardson gave the Baltimores the winning run after one man was out in the last half of the ninth inning. Buffinton gave way to Healy in the sixth inning.

The New Yorks made the only and winning run May 18, and thus evened up the victories in the series. Lyons reappeared with the home team, and this caused several changes in their positions. Richardson and Bassett reached first on called balls in the second inning, the former being forced out by O'Rourke, who scored the winning run on a scratch single by Lyons. This proved to be the only hit or run made by the home team, McMahon pitching very effectively during the remainder of the contest. Rusie also pitched in fine form, and the six hits scored off him were so scattered that the visitors failed to get a run. He was perfectly supported, Gore being credited with a great catch of a long, low liner. Schoch's shortstopping was noteworthy.

Philadelphia vs. Washington.

The Washingtons won for the second time May 17, at Philadelphia, it being the third game of the series. The visitors batted Esper hard and often in the first four innings, bunching eleven safe hits, which secured them seven runs and a long lead. Knell kept the home team from making more than two hits up to the sixth inning, when he was poorly supported, and five men crossed the plate, cutting down the visitors' long lead. Dowd and Donovan made great running catches in the eighth, the latter taking the ball almost off the right field fence, and, completing a double play, cut off a good chance of winning that the home team then had. Delehanty reappeared with the home team after several week's absence on account of a sprained ankle. Radford led in batting, his three hits including a double bagger.

The Washingtons were shut out without a run May 18, and the Philadelphias then evened up the victories in the series. Carsey was batted freely, but he kept the hits so widely scattered that the visitors failed to profit thereby. The Philadelphias knocked Killen out of the box in two innings, having then scored five runs off five safe hits. Kilroy, who was substituted as pitcher in the third inning, was also hit hard. Connor made two timely double baggers, and led in batting. Allen and Richardson excelled in fielding, the former making a sensational stop that cut off a safe hit.

The fourth game was played May 18, at Chicago, the home team then scoring their first victory of the series. Cuppy pitched effectively until the ninth inning, when the Chicagos bunched four safe hits, which yielded them the three winning runs. Hutchison held the Clevelands down to six safe hits, four of which were made in the first and fifth innings, and gave them their two runs. Dungan and Canavan led in batting, the latter making a double, the only long hit of the contest.

The Chicagos won again, May 20, and thus exchanged positions with the Clevelands, securing third place in the championship race. Gumbert prevented the Clevelands from making more than four safe hits, two of which, in the fifth inning, sent in their only run. The Chicagos bunched nine safe hits and scored seven runs in three successive innings off Davis, causing Rettger to be substituted in the pitcher's position in the sixth. Rettger held the home team down to two hits, both being made in the ninth inning. Wilmot's work was the chief feature, he making six difficult catches at left field, besides getting two timely triple baggers. The weather was cold and disagreeable, and only a few people were present.

Louisville vs. St. Louis.

The St. Louis team met with a defeat in the opening contest of the series May 19, at Louisville. Faultless fielding and timely hitting then helped the home team to win a stubbornly contested game. Both pitchers were batted freely, but Meakin was better supported and proved more effective at critical points. Jennings cut off several safe hits by great stops. The weather was cold and the attendance small.

Brooklyn vs. New York.

The opening contest of the series between these clubs took place May 20, at Brooklyn, before about three thousand spectators, the cold weather preventing a large attendance. Rusie was batted hard, especially in the fifth inning, when the Brooklyns bunched five safe hits, and thus secured four runs and a winning lead. He was also wild, giving eight men bases on balls, three of whom scored. Foutz started poorly, giving two men bases on balls, one of which forced in a run and making a low throw to third in the first inning. He afterwards pitched effectively, especially at critical points, twice blanking the visitors after they had filled the bases. He was well supported, Burns and O'Brien making great catches, cutting off home run hits, and Corcoran stopping several seemingly safe hits. Ward and Gore led their respective teams in batting. The Brooklyns excelled in base running.

Philadelphia vs. Baltimore.

The Baltimores were shut out without a run in the opening contest of the series May 20, at Philadelphia. Weyhing held the visitors down to five safe hits, which were widely scattered through the first four innings, and he did not make a wild pitch or give a base on balls during the entire game. Connor commenced the scoring for the Philadelphias by driving the ball over the right field wall for a home run in the fourth inning. A wild throw by Shindle and three scratch singles helped the home team to three runs in the eighth inning, and a wild throw by Gunson gave another run in the ninth.

McMahon pitched wildly in the first inning, when the Philadelphias bunched two timely triples and a single, which gave them five runs and a winning lead. Thompson and Van Haltren were credited with remarkable catches, one by the latter starting a brilliant double play. The official umpire failed to appear, and Cross and Gunson were satisfactorily substituted.

Pittsburg vs. Chicago.

The Chicagos scored another victory May 17, at Pittsburg, the result then being due to their superior fielding. Gumbert kept the home team down to six safe hits, which were widely scattered, except in the third inning. Woodcock, the young collegian, made his first appearance with the Pittsburg team in a championship contest, and did good work after the opening inning, when his wild pitching gave the visitors two runs. He was poorly supported, errors by Bauer and Miller being especially costly.

Galvin was not batted safely until after two men were out in the eighth inning, when Dahlen got in a double bagger, bringing home Kittridge, who had been missed on the 3d by Corkhill. This proved to be the only run scored in the game. Hutchison holding the Pittsburgs down to three safe hits, two of which were made in the third inning.

After three successive defeats the Pittsburgs managed to check the victorious career of the Chicagos in a closely contested game May 23. Swartwood laid off and Raymond took his place, playing third base while Farrell was shifted to right field. The home team batted Baldwin freely, especially in the first and fourth innings when five hits helped them to three runs, Baldwin, however, proved very effective at critical points. Gumbert also did good work and was batted only in the sixth and eighth innings, when the Pittsburgs bunched five safe hits, which, with errors by Anson and Dahlen, yielded five runs and the victory. Ryan and Dungan led in batting, each making three singles.

Cleveland vs. St. Louis.

The St. Louis team forfeited the game scheduled May 21, at Cleveland, having been delayed by a train forty-five minutes after the appointed time for commencing said contest. When the St. Louis team finally appeared it was agreed to play off a postponed game. The visitors won this game in the first inning, when wild pitching by Young and a triple bagger by Caruthers helped them to four runs. Young pitched very effectively during the remainder of the contest. Breitenstein kept the hits scattered until the eighth inning, when the home team scored their only run. Crooks captained the St. Louis team, and played second base. Stricker being laid off.

The Washington team met with a defeat, May 23, at Brooklyn, after a close and exciting contest. The visitors hit Haddock hard, but he proved effective at critical points, except in the seventh inning, when his wild pitching and two safe hits brought in three runs after two men were out. Harvard Defeats Yale.

About two thousand persons were in attendance at the second annual field meeting of the Inter-collegiate Track Athletic Cup Association, composed of the students of Harvard and Yale Colleges, which was held at Yale Field, New Haven, Ct., on Friday afternoon, May 20. The weather was cloudy and somewhat cool, while the track was heavy and slow, which prevented the fine performances that had been confidently expected of the flower of the two colleges. The competitions were close up to the final event, at the commencement of which the score stood 53 for Harvard to 51 for Yale. The wearers of the crimson excel at the high jump, however, and Yale was unable to score at all, Harvard getting all three places, which made them the winners of the cup by a score of 61 to 51 points. Summary:

One hundred yards run—W. Swayne, Yale, first; E. Allen, Yale, second; G. Brown, Harvard, third. Time, 10⅝s.

Games at the Hub.

The Boston Athletic Association held a series of handicap games at Irvington Oval, Boston, Mass., on the afternoon of May 18, and as the weather was favorable, barring a strong and somewhat chilly East wind, there was a goodly crowd in attendance. Although the competitions were interesting, nothing wonderful was accomplished during the progress of the sports. Summary:

Running high jump—C. D. Heywood, B. A. A., scratch, first, 5ft. 9in.; W. G. Irwin, B. A. A., 5in., G. C. Clancy, H. A. A., 3in., F. R. Halloran, S. A. C., 5in., and P. J. Finnernan, B. A. A., 5in., tied for second. Finneran got the place after another trial and a toss up.

DEATH OF BIRDIE LAWRENCE.—Carl Cuqua, the cornetist, at present at the Park Pavilion Theatre, Cleveland, O., mourns the loss of his wife, professionally known as Birdie Lawrence, the seventy two hour female pedestrian, which occurred at that city on May 17, after a very short siege of consumption. Miss Lawrence was well known to the sporting public, having taken part in female pedestrian contests for several years past. Her record on the sawdust is very good. In private life she was beloved for her gentle manner, loving disposition, and ready sympatny for those in trouble. The funeral occurred on Thursday, 19, at Cleveland, and was attended by nearly all the professionals in the city. She leaves a large circle of friends, who sincerely sympathize with the husband in his bereavement.

THE TEAMS of the Irish American Athletic Club, of this city, and the John Mitchell Football Club, of Brooklyn, played a game of football, Gaelic rules, at Erastina, S. I., on Sunday afternoon, May 22. Notwithstanding the fact that rain fell nearly all the time the teams were engaged, there were several hundred enthusiasts present. They were well repaid for their trouble and the discomfort they endured, however, for the match was one of the best and most exciting ever witnessed in this vicinity, finally resulting in a draw, with one goal and five points for each team. The Mitchells objected to this decision, claiming to have made another point, but the referee would not admit that he had blundered in summing up the points, so the decision stands.

THE ENGLISH AMATEUR ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION at a recent meeting rejected all of the records made by C. A. J. Queckberner, of the Manhattan international team, for the reason that they were not accomplished in actual competition. And this notwithstanding that they were measured by the regular officials at games meetings. To be consistent the association should now reject the five mile running record made by W. H. Morton, at Ballsbridge, Ire.; but all such legislation cannot disprove the fact that the performances were accomplished in public and under the watchful eyes of competent officials, which fact should secure to an athlete credit for whatever he does.

J. A. SNOWDON won a fifty mile roller skating race, promoted by Frank Hall, at Central Hall, High Holborn, London, Eng., on May 11. There were seventeen starters, and the track was one of four laps to a mile, laid out on the balcony upstairs, the path running along the walls of the building. There was a large crowd present. Snowdon won, covering the distance in 2h. 53m. 30s., which is the best performance on record. Baker, also an American, was second, with 48 miles 12 laps in the same time; Pearson third, 48.5; Marshal fourth, 44.9.

Keystone State Collegians.

Although rain fell steadily, and at times heavily during the afternoon, the annual field meeting of the Pennsylvania State Inter-collegiate Athletic Association was held on the athletic grounds of the University of Pennsylvania, West Philadelphia, on Saturday, May 21. There was a very fair attendance of spectators, considering the state of the weather, the large majority of those present being under graduates, of course. The principal interest was manifested in the struggle between the athletes representing the University of Pennsylvania and Swarthmore College for the cup, the rivalry between these teams being intense. The result was in favor of Pennsylvania, whose athletes scored sixty-four points. The association records for the quarter mile run and the hammer throw were beaten. Summary:

New Zealand Athletes.

The contingent of athletes from New Zealand who intend taking part in the forthcoming English championship and other amateur athletic meetings arrived in England May 5, on board the New Zealand Shipping Company's steamer Kaikoura.

J. H. Hempton first won the title of the amateur champion sprinter of New Zealand at Dunedin in December, 1889, when he ran the 100yds. in 9⅘s., but as this feat was accomplished with the assistance of a strong wind the time was not accepted as a record. At this season's carnival, held at Christchurch in February, he won both the sprint races in an easy manner, and recorded fast times, the 100yds. belt g run in 9⅘s., and the 250yds., on a heavy track, in 26⅗s. There can scarcely be a doubt as to Hempton's ability to run the 100yds. in that marvelous time, as he accomplished the feat on three occasions within a month on different tracks with different timists. In 1886 he won the 120yds. hurdle championship at Wellington, and at the New Zealand championship meeting, held at Dunedin in the following year, he defeated the hitherto invincible G. B. Shaw of Christchurch, in the 120yds. hurdles.

W. H. Batger represented the Wellington Club at the New Zealand championship meeting, held in Auckland, in February, 1891, when he won with ease both the 120 and 440 yards hurdle championships. In the latter event he established a world's amateur record by cutting out the distance in 61⅗s. At this year's championship carnival Batger won the 440yds. hurdles, and equaled the English records for the 120yds. hurdles, 16s.

D. Wood won the half mile in 2m (New Zealand record); the mile in 4m. 31⅗s., and the three miles in 15m. 40⅘s. (New Zealand record. He was not quite so successful at this year's carnival, as he only ran third in the half mile and mile, but secured the three miles run in 15m. 43s.

L. A. Cuff accompanies the team as manager. He is the greatest amateur athlete enthusiast in New Zealand, and an all round athlete of no mean ability. He is one of the foremost in Canterbury cricket, and captained that province this season. As a hurdler he ranks second to Batger in the colony, while he is credited with running 100yds. in 10⅗s. The jumping events are, however, the department in which Cuff excels. At present he holds the New Zealand record for the broad jump (20ft. 10in., and at the last championship secured second honors in the high jump with a leap of 5ft. 4in.

Peter Wood, who accompanies the team, is a brother to "Derry," and a very promising young runner. At the championship meeting in February he won the 440yds. race in 52⅓s., and ran second to J. H. Hempton in the 250yds. event. Wood will compete in the longer sprints at the championship meeting.

College Lads in the Field.

The students of Hamilton College held games at College Hill, Clinton, N. Y., on the afternoon of May 19, and they were favored with delightful weather, while there was a large crowd on the grounds. The competitions were fairly good, but the performances as a whole were not so creditable as those of last year. Summary:

ED CORRIGAN'S horse RILEY, while at exercise on May 20, struck himself badly in the foreleg. Fever has appeared in the injured member, and it is probable that Riley will have to be withdrawn from his stake engagements for a couple of months, if not for the entire season.

RACING AT GRAVESEND.

The Brooklyn Club Contends With Rain and Mud.

The Gravesend track had a dull and forsaken appearance May 17, in comparison to its display of the day previous, when the Brooklyn Handicap was run, notwithstanding the fact that there were in the neighborhood of about four thousand people in attendance. It was a good crowd under ordinary circumstances, but it looked meagre after the immense throng who gathered to see the big race. It was an extremely pleasant day, and those who were present had the pleasure of seeing some excellent races on a much better track, without being compelled to remain in one spot all the time for fear of being crushed to death. The race for the Falcon Stakes, for three year olds, at one mile and a sixteenth, with eight starters, was the feature of the day. Pickpocket, Tom Tough and Barefoot were all well played, and the first named proved the victor, beating Barefoot by a head. Summary:

A driving rain and a cold wind that pierced the spectators to the very marrow prevented a large attendance 19. It was only that class known as the "regulars" who were present. They were about three thousand strong, and they made it interesting for the bookmakers. There were some good finishes, as five of the six events were decided only in the last several jumps, and in two instances it was so close that only the judges were able to decide. Much fault was found with Jimmy Rowe's starting, and as regards the Seaside Stakes the race was practically ended with the dropping of the flag, owing to Sir Walter getting off so far in front of the rest. In the race for the Carlton Stakes, for three year olds, at a mile, betting was of a lively order between Patron, Charade, Mars and Osric. They were favored in the order named, but by superior jockeyship "Snapper" Garrison managed to bring Charade up in the last few jumps and win by a head. Summary:

A handicap sweepstakes of $20 each, or $5 if declared, with $1,000 added, of which $200 to second and $100 third, one mile and a sixteenth.

Despite the heavy, sloppy track there were some very good races 20. The attendance was large enough and sporty enough to keep eighty-eight bookmakers busy. The chief event of the day was the Maturity Handicap, for four year olds. There were seven starters, Russell being scratched, although the track was just to his fancy. Picknicker proved the victor. JOHN S. RAYNOR - - - - - Lessee and Manager

Despite strong opposition and unfavorable weather,

Sam T. Jack's Lilly Clay Co.

On their return engagement, packed the People's Theatre every night during week ending May 15. Playing to more money than any other attraction in Milwaukee that week.
AN ASSERTION THAT DEFIES CONTRADICTION.

The Lilly Clay Co. is the best variety show seen at the People's Theatre this year. The largest audience of the season witnessed it last night.—SENTINEL, May 10, 1892.

At the People's Theatre, last night, another packed house greeted the Lilly Clay Co.—DAILY NEWS, May 11.

A crowded house appreciated Lilly Clay's Colossal Gaiety Co., last evening, at the People's.—JOURNAL, May 12.

Standing room only was the order at the People's last night.—DAILY NEWS, May 13.

The People's Theatre has been filled to its capacity every evening this week.—JOURNAL, May 13.

Lilly Clay's Gaiety Co. close at the People's Theatre tomorrow evening. It has been a most successful engagement, people having been turned away every evening. It is an exceedingly strong company, and the word strong is not wholly applicable to Sandowe and Cyclops, as Lew Hawkins, Gus Bruno, Howley and Doyle and Sid Euson are all clever in specialties, while the ladies are shapely and the burlesque catchy.—NEWS, May 14.

The Lilly Clay Show at the People's this week has done an immense business for a very simple reason. It deserves the patronage, being the very best entertainment of the kind that has been seen in this city.—PECK'S SUN, May 14.

The performances which have kept the People's Theatre crowded this week will be seen for the last time tomorrow evening. The Lilly Clay Gaiety Co.—SATURDAY STAR, May 14.

Manager Raynor of the People's Theatre has demonstrated that first class variety is appreciated. Sam T. Jack's Lilly Clay Co. turned people away every night last week.—DAILY NEWS, May 16.

Lilly Clay's Gaiety Co. at the People's Theatre is beyond doubt the best of its style that has ever appeared in the city.—YENOWINE'S NEWS, May 14.

Now Booking for Season 1892-3. Attractions open Sunday Matinee and close Saturday Evening. Managers of Combinations desiring time, address JOHN S. RAYNOR, People's Theatre, Milwaukee, Wis.
